WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officials are eyeing a growing pool of peacetime Army veterans as a possible source of trained military manpower in any emergency mobilization.

They calculate that, unless some new system is developed for tapping this pool, the Army would find itself about 250,000 men short of its urgent needs in the first months of a rapidly developing, intense war in Europe.

Although Pentagon officials are not dismissing the possibility of a long war, they appear most concerned about the Army's ability to mobilize enough trained men quickly in event of a sudden, massive Soviet attack on Western Europe.

The problem grows out of the shrinkage of the Army's reserve since the end of the draft.

That reserve manpower pool, drawn on in emergencies to fill out regular, national guard and reserve units to combat strength, used to receive a large and steady flow of young men who had finished two years as draftees and still had four years of military obligation to fulfill.

But now men who served in the peacetime volunteer Army enlist for three or more years. This means they spend longer on active duty and thus are subject to shorter periods of reserve obligation than were the two-year draftees.

As a result, officials predict the reserve will shrink by about two-thirds over the next three years, to a total of about 100,000 men.

Looking at the problem the Pentagon would face in event of a major Soviet attack on NATO at that time, military planners figure they would need an additional one million soldiers in the first four months after outbreak of the crisis. About 200,000 of these would be required to replace casualties in expected intense fighting.

But planners say a call-up of national guard and reserve units and mobilization of men from the depleted reserve pool, plus some other limited sources, would leave the Army about 250,000 men short.

In such a situation, the planners say, a fresh flow of draftees and volunteers would not help fill the deficit, because they would have to be trained for at least three months before being sent into combat.

"We have only one source of trained personnel to meet the deficit in the first months of conflict," Asst. Secretary of Defense William K. Brehm told the House Armed Services Committee recently.

"This source consists of trained, experienced people leaving the Volunteer Force each year, including about 200,000 leaving the Army."

Brehm suggested that a constant pool of about one million Army veterans could be generated by counting all those who have left active Army or reserve service within the previous five years.

Congress Slates Action On Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress takes votes this week that could signal whether President Ford can entice support for his budget proposals or whether congressional Democrats will be able to reshape Ford's budget with more emphasis on social programs and economic stimulation.

House Democrats hope to collect on Tuesday the two-thirds vote they would need to overturn Ford's veto of a $45-billion labor-health, education and welfare appropriation.

Of the 44 vetoes Ford has issued since taking office, only seven have been overridden thus far. Tuesday's vote is expected to be close.

Also on Tuesday, the House is to act on a $112-billion defense appropriation bill containing a rider that forbids use of any of the funds to help any faction in the Angolan civil war. The Senate added the rider last month.

Another Ford-Congress confrontation comes later in the week, possibly Thursday, when the House votes on a $6-billion public works employment bill that the administration opposes as too costly. The Senate already has passed it.

Meanwhile, the House Budget Committee begins today the job of shaping a congressional budget, using fully for the first time the machinery of the new Budget Control Act.

Two weeks of hearings will be followed by item-by-item consideration of administration proposals and congressional counterproposals.

One controversy over reorganizing and helping finance the nation's ailing railroads has been settled after negotiation with the administration. Both chambers are expected to approve the agreed-on $6.4-billion bill on Wednesday.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Separate weekend traffic accidents killed five persons in Indiana.

Police said the last fatal accident reported occurred Sunday in Cato. Peodker Nelson, 73, Winslow, died in a Vincennes hospital Sunday night of injuries suffered in the two-car collision.

The accidents increased the state's 1976 highway death toll to 68 which compares with 45 on this date last year.

Schools Integrated In Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit today became the largest U.S. city to implement a court-ordered school integration plan as 203 buses peacefully transported thousands of black and white elementary pupils to classes.

Although only a few pupils were picked up at some stops, school board officials noted that kindergartners through fifth grade children had classes today and middle and high school pupils were to report for class Tuesday. Nevertheless, drivers today followed routes that called for them to make stops at middle and high school boarding points.

No demonstrations were planned by the city's antibusing groups, but the organizations, which claim membership of 2,300 families, called for a "yellow flu" boycott of classes.

School officials said attendance figures would not be available until later today.

Detroit was experiencing freezing rain which made for treacherous driving on icy streets.

While the buses made their initial runs, scores of handpicked policemen stood at two staging areas. Hundreds of volunteers and paid monitors guarded bus stops, school hallways and cafeterias. Monitors also were assigned to each bus.

Police reported no demonstrations and no problems.

Ford Sees Economic Recovery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although unemployment remains high, almost everything else in the economy is starting to look good and Americans may be entitled to another major tax cut in 1979, President Ford said today.

"The underlying fact about our economy is that it is steadily growing healthier. My policies for 1976 are intended to keep us on that upward path," Ford said in his annual economic report to Congress. He also said, "Regrettably, a full recovery of the economy will take time."

Despite the prospect of job gains this year, Ford's economic advisers said "unemployment will almost surely remain distressingly high."

"Even under the best of circumstances the return to full employment cannot realistically be accomplished this year or next."

Ford did not indicate how much taxes could be decreased in 1979, but he said the decrease would be on top of the $28 billion in permanent tax decreases he already has proposed for this year and next.

He also tied the prospect of future tax reductions to support for his spending recommendations, including the $394.2-billion budget he is proposing for fiscal 1977.

"If we continue in the years ahead to pursue the kind of budgetary restraint which I am recommending, another

Pentagon Agency Would Be Abolished

Intelligence Overhaul?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The staff of the House intelligence committee is recommending that a huge Pentagon intelligence agency be abolished and that stiff sanctions be imposed against government employees, including members of Congress, for leaking secret information.

Another recommendation calls for the House to create a permanent intelligence oversight committee and empower it to publicize secrets if the panel voted to do so by majority vote.

The recommendations are to be tacked onto a 338-page final report, approved by the panel 9 to 4 on Friday. It estimates that total U.S. intelligence costs are $10 billion a year, three or four times the amount listed in the annual defense appropriations bill.

The recommendations do not call for prohibitions against covert U.S. operations but would require that they be approved by the entire National Security Council.

The staff recommends that the Pentagon's Defense Intelligence Agency be abolished and that its functions, including the military attaché program, be divided between the CIA and the secretary of defense's office.

Another recommendation calls for the separation of the National Security Agency from the military agencies. The NSA, the electronic-intelligence agency, would be made an independent civilian agency with a mandate to emphasize the gathering of diplomatic and economic information.

The committee report also contains the following statements:

—A 1973 CIA memorandum says Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., advised the agency on how to try to prevent a CIA official from testifying at a Senate hearing that was unraveling covert CIA operations in Chile. Jackson denied Sunday that he had done anything to protect the agency but said he merely gave procedural advice.

—U.S. intelligence failed to predict the 1968 Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia largely because it lost track of an entire Soviet division in Poland. It also failed to anticipate India's explosion of a nuclear device.

—Kurdish rebels in Iraq suffered more than 100,000 casualties in their rebellion. The CIA supplied weapons to them only to withdraw U.S. support abruptly at the request of the Shah of Iran.

The exact amount that the defense appropriations bill allocates to intelligence is classified, but the report implies that the CIA has told congressional committees in secret that the figure is in the neighborhood of $3 billion annually.

The money in the defense bill also does not include intelligence spending for the FBI, the State Department and several smaller civilian units.

The report's details on secret operations were included in the final report after a majority on the panel voted last week to publish the material despite objections of the White House and some members who argued that the committee had agreed with President Ford to give him final say on what secrets to release.

The House intelligence committee source also said the report includes a letter from the director of the National Security Council saying that telephone conversations of American citizens had been monitored in the past but that the practice has since been stopped.

Criminal penalties are recommended by the staff against anyone who releases the names of intelligence agents or other secret information.

It also provides for censure and possible removal from committees of congressmen who disclose such information.

Last year, Rep. Michael Harrington, D-Mass., was criticized by some House members for releasing secret information about the CIA's involvement in Chile. He was formally charged in a petition by another congressman who asked the House Ethics Committee to penalize him for violating House rules. However, the committee rejected the charge on a technicality.

While recommending such sanctions for improper release of information, the staff recommends that a permanent House intelligence committee be authorized to decide on its own to publicly disclose secret information.

Under another proposed recommendation, if the committee rejected any congressman's request to disclose publicly what he considers improper activity, the congressman would have the right to ask for a secret session of the full 435-member House to consider his request.

Jaycees Name David Petty Outstanding Young Farmer

DAVID PETTY FAMILY — David Petty, the Outstanding Young Farmer in Pickaway County, relaxes with his wife, Judy, and their children, Lee, and Kara.

By STEVE JONES
Herald Editor

The Circleville Jaycees' Outstanding Young Farmer Award for 1975 goes to David F. Petty who farms approximately 800 acres in Pickaway and Saltcreek Townships.

David, his wife Judy, and children, Lee, 6, and Kara, 16 months, live on the Saltcreek-Pickaway Road.

The son of the late Albert (Buck) and Mildred Petty, the outstanding young farmer began his career while still a high school student. He was an integral part of the family farming operation then. In addition, he had his own small herd of hogs which he fattened for market.

Using his father's equipment, his first venture into farming "on the shares" was on the Mrs. Lyman Penn farm in Saltcreek Twp.

Over the years he added to his operation until today he has approximately 700 acres of crop land and 100 acres of meadow under his management.

He has a diversified operation, growing about 325 acres of corn, 220 acres of soybeans and 150 acres of wheat each year. In addition he buys and fattens 200 feeder cattle each year and 100 to 200 head of hogs. His livestock operation is flexible and varies with the market outlook.

A firm believer in minimum tillage practices, Petty utilizes modern fertilizers and weed control chemicals to the best advantage. This year he successfully double-cropped soybeans in wheat stubble with minimum tillage practices.

About seven years ago, he and his wife Judy purchased the 103 acre farm where they live.

The Pettrys manage the agriculture operation almost entirely by themselves, employing seasonal help only during peak planting and harvesting periods.

His busy work schedule allows little time for hobbies, but he loves deer hunting and fox drives and always manages to find a little time to devote to these two outdoor activities.

"I loaf a lot," he says of his other pastime. His wife is an important part of the operation. She is not only the bookkeeper but during the busy periods helps move equipment from one farm to another, hauls grain to the elevator and even can take her turn on the tractor in the fields when she can find babysitters for the two youngsters.

David is a 1959 graduate of Pickaway Twp. High School. He served in the United States Marine Reserves from 1963 to 1970. Mr. and Mrs. Petty are members of the Beef and Pork Producers Farm Bureau Council and attend the Kingston Methodist Church.

Judy is a graduate of Kingston High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loring Hill of Kingston. A graduate of Ohio State University, she taught at Zane Trace, Huntington and nursery school at Teays Valley.

Her family and farming responsibilities no longer permit her to teach fulltime but she does serve as a substitute teacher still. Her hobbies include sewing, knitting and crocheting. Their son Lee is a kindergarten student at McDowell Exchange School.

David has been entered in the competition for the outstanding farmer in the state. He will be honored at the Jaycees Annual Awards Banquet Feb. 2.

Judge Studies Many Motions As Patty Hearst Trial Nears

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With the scheduled start of Patricia Hearst's bank robbery trial one day away, defense attorneys sought rulings today on five pretrial motions, including one claiming the newspaper heiress was brainwashed and another seeking dismissal of the charges against her.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter was scheduled to consider the defense motions, as well as two motions filed by the prosecution, at a hearing today.

Defense attorneys are also seeking to bar as evidence some samples of Miss Hearst's handwriting, prevent testimony from her jailers and fellow inmates and suppress a "log" of Miss Hearst's activities the defense says was kept by a deputy sheriff at San Mateo County Jail.

Another defense motion seeks approval for introduction of "stress evaluation" test results in the form of expert testimony.

The prosecution, meanwhile, is opposing the admission of lie detector test results as evidence and is asking the court to reaffirm its order that Dr. Harry Kozol, a Boston psychiatrist Miss Hearst claims bullied her, be allowed to interview the heiress in private.

A member of the defense team, attorney Thomas May, said before today's hearing that the motion for dismissal of the indictment is based on the contention that the prosecution withheld evidence that would have tended to show Miss Hearst's innocence.

"We believe that if the grand jury had all the evidence available in the case, they would have never indicted Patty," May said. "The forceful nature of her abduction . . . the violent and dangerous character of her abductors were not brought up."

Miss Hearst, 21, is to go on trial Tuesday on charges she took part in the April 15, 1974, holdup of a neighborhood bank branch with members of the Symbionese Liberation Army. She was abducted by the SLA nine weeks earlier, and, in tape-recorded messages after the robbery, she proclaimed her allegiance to the terrorist group.

The start of jury selection was delayed one day when Judge Carter, 64, underwent minor surgery for a vascular ailment in his neck.

In a weekend interview, Hearst attorneys hinted that a key element of the defense will be to show that William and Emily Harris helped brainwash Miss Hearst and wrote the script for her declaration that she willingly took part in the bank robbery.

The Harrises also were arrested Sept. 18, 1975. They are awaiting trial in Los Angeles on separate charges, and the Hearst defense is expected to link them to the bank holdup in opening arguments later this week.

Judge Studies Many Motions As Patty Hearst Trial Nears

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With the scheduled start of Patricia Hearst's bank robbery trial one day away, defense attorneys sought rulings today on five pretrial motions, including one claiming the newspaper heiress was brainwashed and another seeking dismissal of the charges against her.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter was scheduled to consider the defense motions, as well as two motions filed by the prosecution, at a hearing today.

Wrong Man Spends 19 Days In Jail

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two Los Angeles men named Ramon Flores were born the same day, closely resemble each other, have nearly identical Social Security numbers and each is married with five children.

But one of them — the wrong one — spent Christmas and New Year's in jail.

The wrong Flores, 36, a factory worker, was at home napping last Dec. 19 when police knocked on the front door of his modest apartment. He was told a warrant charging him with murder had been issued for his arrest in connection with the death of a 17-year-old boy in Fresno.

He was read his rights, handcuffed and led away just as his pregnant wife and children, aged 2 to 12, were returning from a church function.

Flores told investigators he had never been to Fresno and that on the day of the killing he was at work.

Police said if he was telling the truth, he would soon be released.

But Flores was taken to Fresno on Dec. 22. He was arraigned Christmas Eve and a public defender was appointed. A preliminary hearing was not scheduled until Jan. 7, and his own attorney did not even interview Flores in depth until New Year's Eve.

On Jan. 6, after witnesses said they did not recognize photos of the man in custody, police compared his fingerprints with those they had on file from the previous arrest record of a man named Ramon Flores. The next day, authorities admitted their error.

After 19 days in jail, one Ramon Flores was free. The other remains at large.

"I think sometimes they are always trying too hard to find the man," Flores said in halting English. Although born here, he lived in Tijuana, Mexico, for several years.

Deputy Public Defender Edward Sarkisian of Fresno said he didn't interview Flores immediately because of the holidays and a tight schedule.

"When I interviewed the guy, I was convinced he was innocent right away," Sarkisian said. "He was such a quiet, mild-mannered fellow. A gentleman with a capital 'G.'"

Positive identification of Flores as "the wrong guy" could have been made by his work records and a commendation letter from his employer, Sarkisian said. But relatives insisted on bringing the documents personally and didn't get to Fresno until Jan. 5.

Ford's Health Reported Excellent

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford and First Lady Betty Ford are in excellent physical condition, reports White House physician William Lukash.

Ford underwent a three-hour annual medical examination Saturday, and Lukash reported, "The President has maintained his excellent health and should have no difficulty for any of the responsibilities this coming year."

Lukash gave Mrs. Ford a periodic checkup Friday and said there was no recurrence of the cancer that forced removal of her right breast in September 1974.

"She has apparently conquered her confrontation with cancer," the doctor stated. He added she would continue to undergo chemotherapy treatments until next fall.

Lukash said the First Lady's over-all health was excellent and, although she wants to play an active role in her husband's 1976 election campaign, "at times I may restrict her."

Lukash reported all Ford's tests looked good. He said the President registered a pulse rate of about 60 beats a minute; his blood pressure read 120/70, and his cholesterol was 270 milligrams.

"These findings are generally seen in a conditioned athlete," the doctor said.

Ford is an avid swimmer, golfer, skier and tennis player.

Lukash said the President's weight, 210 pounds when he took office last year, is down to 194 pounds. Ford keeps in shape with a rigorous exercise program that includes lifting 35-pound weights each day to strengthen his knees, both injured in football accidents years ago.

The physician said Ford receives his most invigorating, relaxing exercise with his daily plunges in the heated outdoor White House swimming pool.

Hear Appeal In Quinlan Coma Case

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — The attorney for Joseph and Julia Quinlan appears before the New Jersey Supreme Court today to argue that the Quinlans' comatose daughter has a right to die.

Karen Anne Quinlan, 21, has been in a coma since April 15, kept alive by a respirator. Her parents are seeking court permission to shut off that respirator and allow her to "die with dignity."

The Quinlans' request has been opposed by Karen's doctors, St. Clare's Hospital in Denville, her former court-appointed guardian Daniel R. Coburn, State Atty. Gen. William F. Hyland and Morris County Prosecutor Donald G. Colleser.

During a one-week trial in a state court in Morristown, doctors testified that Miss Quinlan was in a "persistent vegetative state" without cognitive functions. Physicians said she had extensive brain damage and there was nearly no hope for recovery.

Miss Quinlan's court-appointed guardian, Thomas Curtin, said her condition has remained stable since last Nov. 8, when Superior Court Judge Robert Muir Jr. denied the Quinlans' request.

Paul W. Armstrong, attorney for the parents, appealed Muir's decision, and the state Supreme Court agreed to hear the case, bypassing the normal appeals process before the Appellate Division of Superior Court.

At the start of the Superior Court trial last October, Armstrong conceded that Miss Quinlan was not dead by any medical or legal definition. However, he argued that there were constitutional grounds for sanctioning the removal of the respirator.

Indiana Pension Reform Pondered

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Despite handicaps, the Indiana Legislature is moving toward tentative reform of the state's half-billion-dollar puzzle of police and firemen's pensions.

The 1976 session is hamstrung by the short session, divided political control of its two houses and an election year.

The problem stems from past legislatures mandating cities and towns to finance a pension system for police and firemen which costs more than the local governments can afford. From this an unfunded liability of about $500 million has grown.

Wrong Man Spends 19 Days In Jail

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two Los Angeles men named Ramon Flores were born the same day, closely resemble each other, have nearly identical Social Security numbers and each is married with five children.

But one of them — the wrong one — spent Christmas and New Year's in jail.

The wrong Flores, 36, a factory worker, was at home napping last Dec. 19 when police knocked on the front door of his modest apartment. He was told a warrant charging him with murder had been issued for his arrest in connection with the death of a 17-year-old boy in Fresno.

He was read his rights, handcuffed and led away just as his pregnant wife and children, aged 2 to 12, were returning from a church function.

Flores told investigators he had never been to Fresno and that on the day of the killing he was at work.

Police said if he was telling the truth, he would soon be released.

But Flores was taken to Fresno on Dec. 22. He was arraigned Christmas Eve and a public defender was appointed. A preliminary hearing was not scheduled until Jan. 7, and his own attorney did not even interview Flores in depth until New Year's Eve.

On Jan. 6, after witnesses said they did not recognize photos of the man in custody, police compared his fingerprints with those they had on file from the previous arrest record of a man named Ramon Flores. The next day, authorities admitted their error.

After 19 days in jail, one Ramon Flores was free. The other remains at large.

"I think sometimes they are always trying too hard to find the man," Flores said in halting English. Although born here, he lived in Tijuana, Mexico, for several years.

Deputy Public Defender Edward Sarkisian of Fresno said he didn't interview Flores immediately because of the holidays and a tight schedule.

"When I interviewed the guy, I was convinced he was innocent right away," Sarkisian said. "He was such a quiet, mild-mannered fellow. A gentleman with a capital 'G.'"

Positive identification of Flores as "the wrong guy" could have been made by his work records and a commendation letter from his employer, Sarkisian said. But relatives insisted on bringing the documents personally and didn't get to Fresno until Jan. 5.

Ford's Health Reported Excellent

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford and First Lady Betty Ford are in excellent physical condition, reports White House physician William Lukash.

Ford underwent a three-hour annual medical examination Saturday, and Lukash reported, "The President has maintained his excellent health and should have no difficulty for any of the responsibilities this coming year."

Lukash gave Mrs. Ford a periodic checkup Friday and said there was no recurrence of the cancer that forced removal of her right breast in September 1974.

"She has apparently conquered her confrontation with cancer," the doctor stated. He added she would continue to undergo chemotherapy treatments until next fall.

Lukash said the First Lady's over-all health was excellent and, although she wants to play an active role in her husband's 1976 election campaign, "at times I may restrict her."

Lukash reported all Ford's tests looked good. He said the President registered a pulse rate of about 60 beats a minute; his blood pressure read 120/70, and his cholesterol was 270 milligrams.

"These findings are generally seen in a conditioned athlete," the doctor said.

Ford is an avid swimmer, golfer, skier and tennis player.

Lukash said the President's weight, 210 pounds when he took office last year, is down to 194 pounds. Ford keeps in shape with a rigorous exercise program that includes lifting 35-pound weights each day to strengthen his knees, both injured in football accidents years ago.

The physician said Ford receives his most invigorating, relaxing exercise with his daily plunges in the heated outdoor White House swimming pool.

ALCOHOL: The New Teen-Age Turn-On

Parents Search For Alcoholic Signs

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
and BRIAN SULLIVAN
SIXTH IN A SERIES

She is 17 and she comes home tipsy. Once, perhaps a few times. Or her brother, also a teenager, comes home obviously drunk. Perhaps a few times.

Such events do not mean a teen-ager is walking along the path to alcoholism, authorities say. It could be no more than the expected experimentation with alcohol, drugs, cars or other challenges coming into their lives.

Repeated occasions like those, however, and heavy and continued drinking, are something else, often the signal from a run-away calling for help.

Alcohol may provide an escape from something bothering the adolescent, as it does for adults. It may involve school, home, parents, his or her social or personal life, a sense of achievement or lack of it, concern over some real or fancied physical or facial imperfection.

Alcohol becomes a way to relieve the pain or reality, or alcohol is used to make the adolescent feel more competent in dealing with his confusing life.

What are some cautionary signs of difficulty ahead?

Withdrawal from family life can be one. The teen-ager may become more secretive, spending more time alone. There may be sudden, rather drastic personality changes, or changes in behavior. School grades may drop, or interest lost in school, sports, or in accustomed activities. Proneness to accidents could be a sign of loss of control caused by alcohol.

Teen-agers who drink can, like other people, become drunk. However, says Dr. Frank Seixas of the National Council on Alcoholism, as they build up tolerance to alcohol, they can take larger amounts of alcohol and not show it. One cannot always count on the smell of alcohol on the breath. Alcohol itself has no odor, and vodka, with few additives in it, has correspondingly little odor. Chlorophyll products may disguise the odor of alcoholic beverages.

"Parents mustn't become jumpy and accuse the teen-ager of having been drunk because he or she didn't come home once, as had been promised," Dr. Seixas says.

Warning signals that alcohol is being abused could also be signals of other problems, mainly psychological or reflections of doubts accompanying adolescence. Alcohol may not be the root cause of an adolescent's sudden preference to spend much more time alone.

But if signals do seem to point to possible abuse of alcohol, it is time for parents to try to help.

Research is under way to learn how better to understand abuse of alcohol, and answers to it.

Do people genetically inherit a predisposition to abuse it? Evidence is accumulating that in some individuals, alcoholism is a biological and hereditary phenomenon more than something resulting from environmental factors, says Dr. Seixas. It just seems easier for some people to become alcoholics.

Alcoholism is "probably the most complicated health problem of all," says Dr. Patricia O'Gorman of the NCA. "We need to have accurate information, and informed attitudes. There may be biological reasons for alcoholism. We just don't know yet."

Research may also point the way to detecting, fairly early, the youngster who is heading into real trouble from alcohol, and show how to teach children to drink safely, in moderation.

I Could Have Been

By JIM BISHOP

This is a secret I vowed never to reveal. Hollywood blew an opportunity to have a super star. Me. All through the late teen years I trained for the cameras.

I could have earned hundreds of millions for Metro or Paramount or even Warner Brothers, but they were afraid of me. They knew I could not be controlled. So they organized this elaborate conspiracy of silence, pretending that they never heard of me.

Jealousy is a potent weapon. It shattered my life as an actor, but I forgive Sam Goldwyn and Irving Metro and Harry Cohn and all the rest of their ilk. It is they who suffered, not I.

At the age of 16, my father said, "Go to school and study law, or go to work." My father wasn't 16; I was. He was prone to hand out lousy options.

Law is okay if, at the end of the rainbow, you don't mind listening to the castanets of loose dental plates while writing briefs in somebody's rear office. It is hardly my notion of high drama.

So I studied my face in the bathroom mirror. It had planes. Also lumps. My hair was black and straight. With a pat of Vaseline, I could be Rudolph Valentino, an idol who had not been replaced.

I was too short to be Valentino, but so was Alan Ladd. In the kissing closeups, I knew that the studio could stand me on a small box or ask Natasha Rambova to accept the caress on her knees.

My voice had to be restyled. It was too Brooklynese. I was still saying "terlet" when I meant "bathroom." This was corrected by attending all the Ronald Colman movies for the next three years. I saw each one four times, so that I remembered his lines and could say them in that clipped British accent.

I was no mimic, but I assure you I could do Colman better than he did. When I met boys on the corner, I shouted, "I sigh!" or "Tally ho!" and, sometimes, "Yoiks!" I also stuffed wads of cotton up my nostrils to sound a little more nasal.

Tap dancing lessons were $3 a rattle in Belleville, N.J., so I went there twice a week. There were a dozen students—fellows and girls—tapping a time step over and over as a 78 rpm Victrola ground out "The Skater's Waltz."

My father kept asking my mother "What's the matter with that boy?" She knew, but she wouldn't snitch. I had told her that when I signed my first seven-year contract, I would buy a home in Beverly Hills. As she was my first girl, we would share it.

A couple of times my old man caught me drying dishes and doing Ronald Colman in the Foreign Legion bit. "You sick or something?" he said. I clammed up and shook my head no.

I traveled to Times Square to get a theatrical photographer to make a study of my face. I wanted 11-by-14s, which cost more. There I was, in soft focus, my lids half closed in menace to the world of women, wearing a Chesterfield overcoat with a white scarf slashed carelessly across my throat.

It was then that I made my mistake. I mailed one to a studio in Hollywood. It contained a simple message like: "Eat your heart out." My name and address were printed in large letters on the back. The deadly silence began at that moment.

The only person I displayed the photo to was a girl cousin who was not overly bright. Okay, she was a dummy. At least she was honest. She studied the photograph and said, "Jim! Is that you?"

I beat everyone to the mailbox every day for a month. This comes to 30 days, 720 hours, 43,200 minutes. Then I realized that the moguls—as they are loosely called—were out to nip me, so to speak, in the bud.

I practiced my Ronald Colman voice until my old man said, "Shut up!" In the kitchen, I hummed softly and went through my time step until Mrs. Klutz, the animal who lived downstairs, rapped the ceiling with a broom handle.

I was defeated. Broken. I continued faithfully to squeeze my pimples and dab cologne on my face. My old man, with no appreciation of the arts, told me to find a job or get out.

I got a job as an usher at the Paramount. You should have seen me in a wing collar and a powder-blue uniform. Deadly. The manager fired me. This was after Ronald Colman showed up in "Lost Horizon." "One of them talking is enough," he said...

Ten years ago: President Lyndon Johnson proposed a $2.3 billion, six-year program of federal aid to rebuild city slums.

Five years ago: The Soviet Union announced that an unmanned spacecraft had made a soft landing on the planet Venus after a four-month journey through outer space.

One year ago: The Palestine Liberation Organization convicted four guerrillas who had hijacked a British jetliner to Tunis in November and killed a German passenger.

Today's birthdays: Entertainer Eartha Kitt is 48. Black activist Angela Davis is 32.

Thought for today: A sound mind in a sound body is something to be prayed for — Juvenal, Roman lawyer and satirist, about 60 to 140 A.D.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the Continental Congress in Philadelphia heard a report that the British planned to send 25,000 troops to America to try to restore order in the colonies.

Plots Rented At P-Patch

SEATTLE (AP) — The P-Patch program began three years ago when a small group conceived the idea of using the abandoned section of an old truck farm as a public pea patch. It is called the P-Patch in honor of Rainie Picardo who once operated the old truck farm.

Last year, P-Patches expanded to 12 sites and plans call for expansion to 15 sites. The patches cover more than eight acres.

"I think," said Edith Walden, "that a lot of the response can be traced to the present economic situation — you can grow more on one of our plots than you can in most back yards and for less money. But part of it is a philosophic development. People are starting more and more to do things for themselves."

Plots cost $10 a season and Miss Walden estimated that a family can grow $200 worth of food.

In 1880, Ohio had a wheat crop of 49.7 million bushels and only Illinois produced more. The corn crop was 119.9 million bushels.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Many people have great interest in blood pressure numbers. My readers often indicate confusion about the meaning of these numbers.

Doctors in private practice are aware, too, that patients reflect concern and anxiety about this.

Blood pressure readings are always referred to as "one number over another." The upper number indicates the systolic blood pressure. The lower is the diastolic pressure.

"Systolic" indicates the blood pressure in the arteries at the instant the heart beats and pumps blood into them.

"Diastolic" is that pressure in the arteries between beats of the heart.

It is the relationship between the two blood pressure readings that is actually more important than each number itself.

It is for this reason that patients themselves cannot evaluate their condition simply by knowing the numbers alone. Numbers can be terrifying if their real importance is not understood. Perhaps this is the reason doctors frequently do not tell their patients the numbers of the blood pressure reading.

I feel that this is a psychological error. When the patient is told nothing, and the "numbers" become a hidden threat, the mystique of numbers can become frightening. Patients are mature enough to be able to understand the meaning of numbers, in addition to the actual numbers.

Many people become so consumed with the "number game" that they actually buy their own blood pressure apparatus and take their pressure at regular intervals. This is psychologically unwise. It is known that many people, under the stress of taking their own blood pressure, will register a higher level. The concern about this magnifies their anxiety and a cycle of emotional distress inevitably follows.

Only an adequate explanation by the doctor can ease the anxiety that so many people feel about their "pressure."

Hypertension, or high blood pressure, does not hold the terror it once did. The excellent drugs that are now available can, in certain types of high blood pressure, keep it under control and reduce the risk of complications.

One of the greatest problems that confronts the physician is that people with high blood pressure do not consult them until some complication occurs. Health officials, physicians and educators are constantly campaigning to bring out of hiding "unsuspected" cases of high blood pressure.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The Dow Jones industrial stock average has leaped more than 100 points so far this year, but relatively little feeling seems to exist that we are riding the bulls to greener pastures.

This might seem paradoxical at first glance, but a different picture gradually emerges as we place this latest rally in context. It's sort of like having to adjust your eyes after coming into the movie house.

In context, this straight-up surge is seen to be part of a pattern that has existed over the past 10 years, and which probably is most graphically described as resembling the Grand Teton mountain range. Up-down.

Beginning 10 years ago, when a high of 995.15 was reached, the average is a series of peaks and valleys but almost no plateaus. And yet, if it had remained a plateau it would be at the very same height.

In 10 years there have been seven peaks of 900 points or more, and six steep valleys that brought the average under 800, the deepest being the 577.60 points in 1974.

With the market that volatile, you can understand why some potential investors remain observers, waiting for even more confirmation that this thing is real and likely to be around for a while.

The fact is that after a net gain of well over 200 points in 1975 and another 100 points so far this year, the market is still below the level of 10 years ago. And time after time it has turned down after reaching that 1966 high.

Plenty of people wonder if this isn't just another of those crazy bounces that always seem to bump off that 995 ceiling. Somehow, all these surges seem to provide their own momentum until they reach that height.

Then what happens? Something about the heights makes investors stop to think. In that rarefied atmosphere they ask questions, most of which relate to one consideration: Should we really be this high?

At that point the market's own momentum seems to insist on support, and that must come from the economic fundamentals, and so the question eventually is resolved when investors decide if the economy is with them.

That decision could very well be before investors during the next week or so, and it won't be an easy one to face. At the very time they seek clarity the issues seem to be cloudy.

It is true that the economy is moving ahead, as measured by the statistics of industrial production and sales, but a lot less strongly than many observers, including government officials would like.

And while the statistics are improving, they tend to hide a relatively poor performance by the price and job sectors of the economy. The vast underutilization of human skills is at the moment a terrible economic drain, a waste.

The stock market will give its own assessment very soon.

ALCOHOL: The New Teen-Age Turn-On

Parents Search For Alcoholic Signs

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
and BRIAN SULLIVAN
SIXTH IN A SERIES

She is 17 and she comes home tipsy. Once, perhaps a few times.

Or her brother, also a teenager, comes home obviously drunk. Perhaps a few times.

Such events do not mean a teen-ager is walking along the path to alcoholism, authorities say. It could be no more than the expected experimentation with alcohol, drugs, cars or other challenges coming into their lives.

Repeated occasions like those, however, and heavy and continued drinking, are something else, often the signal from a run-away calling for help.

Alcohol may provide an escape from something bothering the adolescent, as it does for adults. It may involve school, home, parents, his or her social or personal life, a sense of achievement or lack of it, concern over some real or fancied physical or facial imperfection.

Alcohol becomes a way to relieve the pain or reality, or alcohol is used to make the adolescent feel more competent in dealing with his confusing life.

What are some cautionary signs of difficulty ahead?

Withdrawal from family life can be one. The teen-ager may become more secretive, spending more time alone. There may be sudden, rather drastic personality changes, or changes in behavior. School grades may drop, or interest lost in school, sports, or in accustomed activities. Proneness to accidents could be a sign of loss of control caused by alcohol.

Teen-agers who drink can, like other people, become drunk. However, says Dr. Frank Seixas of the National Council on Alcoholism, as they build up tolerance to alcohol, they can take larger amounts of alcohol and not show it. One cannot always count on the smell of alcohol on the breath. Alcohol itself has no odor, and vodka, with few additives, in it, has correspondingly little odor. Chlorophyll products may disguise the odor of alcoholic beverages.

"Parents mustn't become jumpy and accuse the teen-ager of having been drunk because he or she didn't come home once, as had been promised," Dr. Seixas says.

Warning signals that alcohol is being abused could also be signals of other problems, mainly psychological or reflections of doubts accompanying adolescence. Alcohol may not be the root cause of an adolescent's sudden preference to spend much more time alone.

But if signals do seem to point to possible abuse of alcohol, it is time for parents to try to help.

Research is under way to learn how better to understand abuse of alcohol, and answers to it.

Do people genetically inherit a predisposition to abuse it? Evidence is accumulating that in some individuals, alcoholism is a biological and hereditary phenomenon more than something resulting from environmental factors, says Dr. Seixas. It just seems easier for some people to become alcoholics.

Alcoholism is "probably the most complicated health problem of all," says Dr. Patricia O'Gorman of the NCA. "We need to have accurate information, and informed attitudes. There may be biological reasons for alcoholism. We just don't know yet."

Research may also point the way to detecting, fairly early, the youngster who is heading into real trouble from alcohol, and show how to teach children to drink safely, in moderation.

I Could Have Been

By JIM BISHOP

This is a secret I vowed never to reveal. Hollywood blew an opportunity to have a super star. Me. All through the late teen years I trained for the cameras.

I could have earned hundreds of millions for Metro or Paramount or even Warner Brothers, but they were afraid of me. They knew I could not be controlled. So they organized this elaborate conspiracy of silence, pretending that they never heard of me.

Jealousy is a potent weapon. It shattered my life as an actor, but I forgive Sam Goldwyn and Irving Metro and Harry Cohn and all the rest of their ilk. It is they who suffered, not I.

At the age of 16, my father said, "Go to school and study law, or go to work." My father wasn't 16; I was. He was prone to hand out lousy options.

Law is okay if, at the end of the rainbow, you don't mind listening to the castanets of loose dental plates while writing briefs in somebody's rear office. It is hardly my notion of high drama.

So I studied my face in the bathroom mirror. It had planes. Also lips. My hair was black and straight. With a pat of Vaseline, I could be Rudolph Valentino, an idol who had not been replaced.

I was too short to be Valentino, but so was Alan Ladd. In the kissing closeups, I knew that the studio could stand me on a small box or ask Natasha Rambova to accept the caress on her knees.

My voice had to be restyled. It was too Brooklynese. I was still saying "terlet" when I meant "bathroom." This was corrected by attending all the Ronald Colman movies for the next three years. I saw each one four times, so that I remembered his lines and could say them in that clipped British accent.

I was no mimic, but I assure you I could do Colman better than he did. When I met boys on the corner, I shouted, "I sigh!" or "Tally ho!" and, sometimes, "Yoiks!" I also stuffed wads of cotton up my nostrils to sound a little more nasal.

Tap dancing lessons were $3 a rattle in Belleville, N.J., so I went there twice a week. There were a dozen students—fellows and girls—tapping a time step over and over as a 78 rpm Victrola ground out "The Skater's Waltz."

My father kept asking my mother "What's the matter with that boy?" She knew, but she wouldn't snitch. I had told her that when I signed my first seven-year contract, I would buy a home in Beverly Hills. As she was my first girl, we would share it.

A couple of times my old man caught me drying dishes and doing Ronald Colman in the Foreign Legion bit. "You sick or something?" he said. I clammed up and shook my head no.

I traveled to Times Square to get a theatrical photographer to make a study of my face. I wanted 11-by-14s, which cost more. There I was, in soft focus, my lids half closed in menace to the world of women, wearing a Chesterfield overcoat with a white scarf slashed carelessly across my throat.

It was then that I made my mistake. I mailed one to a studio in Hollywood. It contained a simple message like: "Eat your heart out." My name and address were printed in large letters on the back. The deadly silence began at that moment.

The only person I displayed the photo to was a girl cousin who was not overly bright. Okay, she was a dummy. At least she was honest. She studied the photograph and said, "Jim! Is that you?"

I beat everyone to the mailbox every day for a month. This comes to 30 days, 720 hours, 43,200 minutes. Then I realized that the moguls—as they are loosely called—were out to nip me, so to speak, in the bud.

I practiced my Ronald Colman voice until my old man said, "Shut up!" In the kitchen, I hummed softly and went through my time step until Mrs. Klutz, the animal who lived downstairs, rapped the ceiling with a broom handle.

I was defeated. Broken. I continued faithfully to squeeze my pimples and dab cologne on my face. My old man, with no appreciation of the arts, told me to find a job or get out.

I got a job as an usher at the Paramount. You should have seen me in a wing collar and a powder-blue uniform. Dead. The manager fired me. This was after Ronald Colman showed up in "Lost Horizon." "One of them talking is enough," he said.

A fund raising drive to purchase an equipment van for the department is being conducted. Persons who would like to contribute may contact any fireman on the department.

At the January meeting of the volunteers, Vernon Gregory, 1950 Arapaho Drive, was elected captain of the department and Adrian Buskirk, 1865 Souix Drive, lieutenant. Chief of the department is Robert Bell.

All new members of the department, along with members of the Saltcreek-Tarlton Fire Department, will begin fire training Feb. 3. The instructor will be Robert Featheringham of the Harrison Twp. Volunteer Fire Department.

Carter Would Cut Bureaucracy, Push Jobs

ATLANTA (AP) — Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, a Democratic presidential candidate who opposed the election-year tax cut, says if he wins the White House he will reorganize the federal bureaucracy and seek to stabilize the economy with new jobs. He has few concrete proposals and no specific figures on the cost or impact of his economic plans. Asked for details about the program, Steve Stark, Carter's issues coordinator, said:

"These are general things we're committed to, but the specifics will come later as our specific economic proposals are released."

Carter also says his administration would seek the worldwide elimination of nuclear weapons, but he has no specific plans on how to achieve what he concedes is only an ultimate goal.

The 51-year-old Carter, a former nuclear submarine officer whose income flows chiefly from a family peanut farm, was governor of Georgia from 1971 to 1975. He could not serve two consecutive terms under state law and began immediately to campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Some of his plans for the federal bureaucracy echo steps he took in Georgia, such as reorganizing the government to consolidate duplicated efforts and changing budgetary procedures to require a fresh justification each year for tax-supported programs.

Carter said that the federal government now has 1,900 agencies and departments. He said he would cut this to 200. Asked where he would cut, Carter replied, "It is impossible to say now." He pledged that no civil service employee would be fired and said all reductions could be made through attrition.

(Carter did not say where he got the 1,900 figure from. The Senate Government Operations Committee reported that as of Oct. 1, 1975, there were 1,409 agencies, etc., including 11 executive departments, 57 independent executive agencies and 1,341 committees, boards and commissions. That does not count subgroups within some of the agencies.

(While governor, Carter cut the number of state agencies in Georgia from almost 300 to just over 20. His critics say that the merger of small departments into large agencies accomplished very little and resulted in no real savings.)

A key to Carter's aims is reducing unemployment which, he says, causes budget deficits that in turn lead to inflation.

"The idea that an end to unemployment automatically means a period of increasing inflation is, in our opinion and that of a growing number of economists, a myth," he said.

"In order to reduce inflation and strive for a more controllable budget the single domestic economic thrust should be toward employment."

Carter said economic recovery will require many simultaneous actions, but the first step is to restore confidence in the government "and in our own economic strength, which is still as great as it was five years ago or 20 years ago when things were booming."

Carter said an emerging solar energy technology will provide jobs for many blue collar workers and that new public service jobs will be created if the country takes care of its needs.

He has not presented any specific plan to raise money for creating public service jobs and has not issued estimates on how much his plans would cost.

"We need to recognize that there are millions of jobs crying out to be filled," he said, pointing to the solar energy industry as one that could provide jobs for plumbers, pipefitters, tinsmiths, carpenters, electricians and others. The government could stimulate employment in that industry by shifting research and development funds away from nuclear energy, he said.

(Arthur D. Little Inc., a research firm, estimates that solar power equipment will be a $1.3 billion-a-year industry by 1985, but less than $60 million was spent in 1975 on solar energy, most of it by the government. The federal Energy Research and Development Agency has asked Congress for $70 million for solar energy demonstrations this year.)

Carter said that taking care of America's needs in transportation, health care and rehabilitation would provide further jobs, drawing workers from welfare rolls or the chronically unemployed with little additional cost.

"Many workers in retardation, alcoholism and drug programs will come from welfare or from the chronically unemployed with little increase in over-all cost," he said.

As a last resort, Carter proposes public employment jobs similar to those in the Civilian Conservation Corps and Works Progress Administration of the depression years. They would be aimed at "young Americans 18, 19, 20, 21 years old who have an extremely high unemployment rate — in excess of 40 per cent for black young people."

(The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported the unemployment rate for blacks and other minority group members between the ages of 16 and 19 was just under 35 per cent in November.)

Carter said the net cost per week for each young person would be small. But he gave no figure on the over-all budget impact.

"It costs about $80 per week for an unemployed family for expenses not including medical care, versus $92 per week for a 40-hour work week," he said, adding that the difference "will be reduced by taxes paid, Social Security payments made and the productivity of the hired person during the week."

Blue Max Award For Patrolman

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Highway patrolman Ronald L. Hoeft, 28, of the Castalia post has been presented the patrol's Blue Max award for having made more stolen car recoveries and apprehensions during 1975 than any other patrolman.

The two-year patrol veteran made 13 stolen vehicle recoveries and arrests during the year.

Under the patrol's Blue Max program, each patrolman recovering a stolen car and apprehending its thief receives a lightning bolt insignia which is affixed to his cruiser. A patrolman who earns five lightning bolts is given the Ace award.

Legislative Report

State Representative
88th House District

Legislation designed to assist in preventing the deterioration of residential neighborhoods was approved yesterday by the Ohio House of Representatives. House Bill No. 354, sponsored by Rep. Francine Panehal, of Cleveland, would grant a five year property tax exemption for improvements to a home or dwelling. Such an exemption would, hopefully, stimulate home improvements, especially in middle and lower income areas.

Under the provisions of the bill, the amount of exemption would be the amount by which the improvement increased the market value of the home. However, no exemption could exceed one-third of the market value of the home or $10,000, whichever is less. If the improvement increased the home's value by more than these limits, only the excess would be subject to the property tax. In any case, after five years the exemption would expire.

Improvements to homes, apartments, condominiums, and other residential properties would be covered by the exemption.

House Bill No. 354, the exemption legislation, awaits favorable action by the Senate and the Governor before the tax exemption become a reality.

Another bill passed by the House yesterday would, if enacted, permit townships to hire a township administrator. Presently, there is no provision in Ohio law permitting the boards of township trustees to hire and administrator.

Rep. Thomas Carney (Boardman, Ohio) sponsor of the measure, pointed CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland has acquired a submarine, complete with torpedo tubes.

The USS Cod has been turned over to the Cleveland Coordinating Committee for the Cod, which had raised $25,000 in public contributions to save the World War II vintage sub from the scrap heap.

The Cod has been parked near a U.S. Naval Reserve building on Cleveland's Lake Erie waterfront for several years and has been visited by hundreds of persons.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Dr. John P. Malcolm has been named associate director of the Ohio State University Telecommunications Center.

out that many urban townships are growing rapidly and need an administrator to handle day-to-day problems. Carney also stated that a township administrator familiar with township operations could make substantive recommendations to the trustees.

The administrator's duties, as prescribed by House Bill 983, would include execution of township board policies, supervision of township board activities, preparation of the township budget, and management of township finances. A township administrator would roughly be the township equivalent of a city manager.

Because of the overwhelming vote (86 to 8) in favor of the township administrator bill, Senate approval seems certain in the near future.

In other legislative action this week, the House concurred to Senate amendments to House Bill No. 126, legislation easing voter registration restrictions.

Under current law, when registered voters move out of their precinct or when registered voters change their name, they are not eligible to vote unless they report the changes to the local board of elections.

House Bill No. 126, authored by Rep. Don Maddux of Lancaster, would ease these automatic disenfranchisements of voters. The bill would permit voters who move from one precinct to another to vote in their former precinct at the first election after the move without prior notice to the elections board. After that, persons would have to notify the elections board of the move to maintain their registration.

The bill also permits voters who change their name to vote under their former name in the first election after the change without notifying the board of elections of the name change. To qualify for subsequent elections, persons would have to notify the elections board of their change of name.

The Governor is expected to sign H.B. No. 126 in time for these provisions to be effective for the June election.

Pickaway VFD 1975 Activities Report Announced

The Pickaway Twp. Volunteer Fire Department answered 56 calls during 1975.

A breakdown of the calls is as follows: 13 grass and rubbish, 11 vehicle fires and accidents, one plane crash, 10 good intent calls, nine building fires, five service calls, four false alarms, three factor fire calls.

The second half of 1975 showed an increase of 95 per cent in calls over the first half of the year.

The department had a combined total of 162 man meetings for the year.

A fund raising drive to purchase an equipment van for the department is being conducted. Persons who would like to contribute may contact any fireman on the department.

At the January meeting of the volunteers, Vernon Gregory, 1950 Arapaho Drive, was elected captain of the department and Adrian Buskirk, 1865 Souix Drive, lieutenant. Chief of the department is Robert Bell.

All new members of the department, along with members of the Saltcreek-Tarleton Fire Department, will begin fire training Feb. 3. The instructor will be Robert Featheringham of the Harrison Twp. Volunteer Fire Department.

Persons in Pickaway Twp. needing the fire department services should call 474-2176, the telephone number of Sheriff Dwight Radcliff. The sheriff's department will then alert the firemen.

Carter Would Cut Bureaucracy, Push Jobs

ATLANTA (AP) — Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, a Democratic presidential candidate who opposed the election-year tax cut, says if he wins the White House he will reorganize the federal bureaucracy and seek to stabilize the economy with new jobs. He has few concrete proposals and no specific figures on the cost or impact of his economic plans. Asked for details about the program, Steve Stark, Carter's issues coordinator, said:

"These are general things we're committed to, but the specifics will come later as our specific economic proposals are released."

Carter also says his administration would seek the worldwide elimination of nuclear weapons, but he has no specific plans on how to achieve what he concedes is only an ultimate goal.

The 51-year-old Carter, a former nuclear submarine officer whose income flows chiefly from a family peanut farm, was governor of Georgia from 1971 to 1975. He could not serve two consecutive terms under state law and began immediately to campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Some of his plans for the federal bureaucracy echo steps he took in Georgia, such as reorganizing the government to consolidate duplicated efforts and changing budgetary procedures to require a fresh justification each year for tax-supported programs.

Carter said that the federal government now has 1,900 agencies and departments. He said he would cut this to 200. Asked where he would cut, Carter replied, "It is impossible to say now." He pledged that no civil service employee would be fired and said all reductions could be made through attrition.

(Carter did not say where he got the 1,900 figure from. The Senate Government Operations Committee reported that as of Oct. 1, 1975, there were 1,409 agencies, etc., including 11 executive departments, 57 independent executive agencies and 1,341 committees, boards and commissions. That does not count subgroups within some of the agencies.

COOKING IS FUN

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

MAKE-AHEAD SUPPER

Vegetable soup, sweet sole, rye bread, lettuce, tomatoes and cucumbers, baked apples, beverage.

Sweet Sole

Adapted from a Jewish-Swiss recipe.
2 cups thinly sliced onion
1/4 cup peanut oil
1/4 cup raisins
2 tablespoons slivered blanched almonds
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup sweet white wine
1/4 cup red or white wine vinegar
1 1/2 pounds sole fillets, thawed if frozen

In a 10-inch skillet gently cook the onion in the oil until tender — about 10 minutes. Stir in raisins, almonds, salt, pepper, wine and wine vinegar; bring to a boil. Add sole. Cover and simmer until fillets are opaque — 10 to 15 minutes. With a wide spatula, transfer fillets to a wide shallow serving dish. With a large slotted spoon arrange onion, raisins and almonds over fish; carefully pour the liquid in skillet over the top. Cover tightly and refrigerate several hours or overnight. Makes 6 servings.

SUNDAY BRUNCH

Broiled grapefruit, bacon and eggs, wheatmeal gems, beverage.

Wheatmeal Gems

Because they're small they need only brief baking.
3/4 cup whole bran cereal
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup flour, fork-stir to aerate before measuring
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup yellow cornmeal
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
1 egg

Soak bran in milk until milk is absorbed. Stir together flour, baking powder, salt and cornmeal. Cream butter and sugar; beat in egg; stir in bran; add flour mixture and stir only until moistened. Spoon into buttered muffin-pan cups (1 1/4 inches across top and 3/4-inch deep), filling 3/4 full. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — about 15 minutes. Serve at once with butter or margarine. Makes 24.

RIF To Benefit Circleville, Pickaway County Children

Children in Circleville and Pickaway County are among the more fortunate in the country who benefit from a "Reading Is Fundamental" (RIF) program, sponsored locally by the Circleville branch of American Association of University Women (AAUW).

Although RIF is a national program, advertised on TV, it must be sponsored and totally financed by the community which it serves. There are only a little over 300 RIF programs in 47 states. The purpose of the program is to "create the desire to read among children at an early age by showing them that reading is fun" (as well as fundamental).

It seeks to "motivate children to read by giving them an opportunity to choose for themselves from a wide variety of attractive, inexpensive paperbacks, the books which interest them. It lets them keep the books. Freedom of choice and pride in ownership are the key factors."

The local RIF program is conducted in the Title I classes, grades 1 through 6, for children with reading problems. Over 650 children received three books apiece in the spring of 1975. Since the beginning of the RIF program in Circleville in 1972 over 4100 books have been distributed.

Comments from parents and teachers indicate that the program is very successful. Children enjoy the books, read them in class and at home to their parents, brothers and sisters. They draw pictures about the stories and write letter of thanks for the books.

Without the generous financial help of all the Parent-Teacher organizations of the 14 schools involved and many civic minded organizations, a program of this scope would not be possible. The Circleville Branch of AAUW is grateful for this support. The following organizations have already contributed to this year's program: South Court Street PTB, Saltcreek and Laurelville PTO's, and Circleville Kiwanis Club. Donations may be sent to Circleville Branch AAUW, c/o Mrs. Donald W. Flierl, RIF chairman, 350 E. Main St., Ashville, Ohio 43103.

According to statements by RIF Inc. of Washington, D. C., this nation is faced with a growing population that does not, or will not, or cannot read. Twenty-one million Americans, age 16 and over, cannot read a want ad. Federal studies show that about 43 per cent of all elementary school children are in critical need of help with reading; 20 per cent cannot read and thus cannot keep up with their age group, and average reading ability is far below potential.

RIF is a non-profit, tax-exempt, national organization which aims to create the desire to read among all children at an early age by showing them that reading is fun; demonstrate that books, in the home and in the classroom, are essential to a child, and that books should be available to all children to own, borrow and buy.

Mrs. W. Breegle BPW Club Speaker

Circleville Business and Professional Women's Club met Thursday evening at the Colony House to discuss future events. A dessert course was served preceding the business session and program.

Meg Bowers, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Winifred Breegle, a school teacher, who gave an illustrated talk about a recent trip to Italy with some of her students. She displayed souvenirs she brought home from the trip.

The business meeting was conducted by Louise Hill. Included was a financial report by Kathleen Hoffman, a report on the historical site plaque under construction, and the announcement of a special club breakfast to be held 8 a.m., Feb. 7, at Pickaway Arms.

Pickaway Plains Chapter DAR Addressed By Mrs. Kitzmiller

Mrs. H. E. Kitzmiller of Lancaster, former state chairman of national defense and present recording secretary of Ohio Society of Daughters of American Revolution discussed "To Guard And Defend" at the January meeting of Pickaway Plains Chapter DAR.

MRS. H. E. KITZMILLER

She said "As the year ends approaching the DAR 77th State Congress in March and the 84th Continental Congress in April, we stress the beauties of DAR, our country and home. Often times the DAR is called "The Stenwinder" working with the resolution committee and stressing the resolutions which come from the local chapter and then to state and on to national headquarters for consideration."

She quoted Andrew Jackson's statement "Providence has showered on this land blessings without numbers and has chosen you as the guardians of freedom to preserve it for benefit of the human race. May he cradle you to guard and defend to the end of time, the great charge he has committed to your keeping." In closing her talk she read "Freedom's Torch."

Mrs. Henry Bartholomew, regent, opened the business meeting using the DAR ritual assisted by Mrs. Emerson Spicer. The Pledge to the Flag of the United States of America was led by Mrs. Christian Schwarz followed by group singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" accompanied by Mrs. Joseph Peters.

Mrs. Peters read a letter from Mrs. Wakelee Rawson Smith, president general, who said "There is a double challenge this year as we mark the Bicentennial of our nations' founding, to commemorate the past and build for the future."

Mrs. Charles Beckman read a letter of thanks from the Veterans Administration for the contributions sent last month. She also read a letter from Mrs. George McGee who has been hospitalized, thanking members for their good wishes for a speedy recovery.

Alternates are Mrs. Judd Dresbach, Mrs. Joseph Peters, Mrs. Emerson Spicer and Mrs. Robert Pickens. Delegates to Continental Congress are Mrs. Henry Bartholomew and Miss Dhel Renick. Alternates are Mrs. Charles Beckman, Mrs. J. Wright Noecker, Miss Helen Mettler and Mrs. Mary Alice Greenwood.

Hostesses were Mrs. Leora Sayre, Mrs. McClure Hughes, Mrs. Leland Pontius, Mrs. Ralph Woolever, Mrs. Ben Nothstine, Miss Dhel Renick, Mrs. Forest Croman, Mrs. Glyn Hoover, Mrs. David Pontius, Mrs. T. L. Cromley, Miss Betty McCoy and Mrs. Paul W. Gearhart.

Brushing a loaf of yeast bread with slightly beaten egg white before it goes in the oven helps produce a crisp crust. Because you need only a small amount of the egg white, you can pour the rest of it into a small jar and put it in the freezer for use another time.

COOKING IS FUN

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

MAKE-AHEAD SUPPER

Vegetable soup, sweet sole, rye bread, lettuce, tomatoes and cucumbers, baked apples, beverage.

Sweet Sole

Adapted from a Jewish-Swiss recipe.
2 cups thinly sliced onion
1/4 cup peanut oil
1/4 cup raisins
2 tablespoons slivered blanched almonds
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup sweet white wine
1/4 cup red or white wine vinegar
1 1/2 pounds sole filets, thawed if frozen

In a 10-inch skillet gently cook the onion in the oil until tender — about 10 minutes. Stir in raisins, almonds, salt, pepper, wine and wine vinegar; bring to a boil. Add sole. Cover and simmer until filets are opaque — 10 to 15 minutes. With a wide spatula, transfer filets to a wide shallow serving dish. With a large slotted spoon arrange onion, raisins and almonds over fish; carefully pour the liquid in skillet over the top. Cover tightly and refrigerate several hours or overnight. Makes 6 servings.

SUNDAY BRUNCH

Broiled grapefruit, bacon and eggs, wheatmeal gems, beverage.

Wheatmeal Gems

Because they're small they need only brief baking.

3/4 cup whole bran cereal
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup flour, fork-stir to aerate before measuring
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup yellow cornmeal
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
1 egg

Soak bran in milk until milk is absorbed. Stir together flour, baking powder, salt and cornmeal. Cream butter and sugar; beat in egg; stir in bran; add flour mixture and stir only until moistened. Spoon into buttered muffin-pan cups (1 3/4 inches across top and 3/4-inch deep), filling 3/4 full. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — about 15 minutes. Serve at once with butter or margarine. Makes 24.

Comments from parents and teachers indicate that the program is very successful. Children enjoy the books, read them in class and at home to their parents, brothers and sisters. They draw pictures about the stories and write letter of thanks for the books.

Without the generous financial help of all the Parent-Teacher organizations of the 14 schools involved and many civic minded organizations, a program of this scope would not be possible. The Circleville Branch of AAUW is grateful for this support.

The following organizations have already contributed to this year's program: South Court Street PTB, Saltcreek and Laurelville PTO's, and Circleville Kiwanis Club. Donations may be sent to Circleville Branch AAUW, c/o Mrs. Donald W. Flierl, RIF chairman, 350 E. Main St., Ashville, Ohio 43103.

According to statements by RIF Inc. of Washington, D. C., this nation is faced with a growing population that does not, or will not, or cannot read. Twenty-one million Americans, age 16 and over, cannot read a want ad. Federal studies show that about 43 per cent of all elementary school children are in critical need of help with reading; 20 per cent cannot read and thus cannot keep up with their age group, and average reading ability is far below potential.

RIF is a non-profit, tax-exempt, national organization which aims to create the desire to read among all children at an early age by showing them that reading is fun; demonstrate that books, in the home and in the classroom, are essential to a child, and that books should be available to all children to own, borrow and buy.

Ohio Senate Report

By OAKLEY C. COLLINS
17th District Senator

Property tax rates promise to be one of the hottest issues in this session of the General Assembly, both politically and in terms of their impact on Ohio taxpayers and state revenues. Ohio's 88 counties are currently undergoing a six year cycle of real property reappraisal in which a uniform 35 per cent tax rate is to be instituted as a result of a series of court decisions in the late 60's and early 70's.

In the Park Investment Case the Ohio Supreme Court ruled that constitutional and statutory provisions mandate uniform taxation of real property to preserve the principle of equal taxation. Among the different counties the effective tax rate varied from as much as 40 per cent of market value to as little as 10 per cent.

The court reasoned that a state-mandated tax should be applied equally throughout the state. The state Board of Tax Appeals subsequently set a uniform rate of 35 per cent of real value which goes into effect as county auditors reappraise the value of property in the 1972-77 cycle.

Real property values are now re-established every six years with periodic updates by county auditors. Values are based on a recent sale price, improvement, or sales-ratio - a formula basing value on value of similar property in the neighborhood.

Property is then assessed at 35 per cent of the updated value for tax purposes. Local millage times 35 per cent of the true value determines total property taxes due. A "mill" is equal to $1 tax on $1,000 worth of property.

For example, a $10,000 property would be liable for $3,500 of taxes (assessed at 35 per cent). If there were 10 mills in effect that would be 10-1000 times $3,500, or $35 in taxes. Twenty mills would require $70 in taxes.

State law now recognizes two kinds of millage. County budget commissions may levy up to 10 "inside" mills without a vote of the people. "Outside" millage beyond the 10-mill limit requires voter approval. Outside millage is reduced when property values rise to keep total taxes constant, but inside millage cannot be rolled back. Thus, when inflation raises property values, the "mills times assessed value" formula produces an unvoted tax increase.

Because of inflation and the "new" 35 per cent rate property owners in some counties have experienced tax increases of up to 500 per cent. Fifty-eight counties have undergone reappraisal to date. Nineteen will be reappraised in 1976 and the remaining eleven in 1977.

The Legislature is now considering several measures to soften the impact of heavy taxes due to rising property values and the 35 per cent tax rate.

Senate Joint Resolution 33 would change Ohio's Constitution to specify three classes of real property for tax purposes: industrial, taxed at a 40 per cent rate; commercial, at a 35 per cent rate; and residential, at a 25 per cent rate.

The stated intent of this resolution is to lighten the property tax load of homeowners, but I believe the unstated intent is to "sock it to business."

The Resolution unfortunately sacrifices sound long-range tax policy for political expediency.

Ohio is an industrial state in spite of the fact that it now imposes the fourth highest tax burden on business of any state in the nation. Some plants are now beginning to leave the state and many others are choosing to expand in other states with lower taxes. The added tax burden on business of this proposed resolution would only further dampen the state's economy and would not really help homeowners since the tax would be passed on to consumers through higher prices.

Senate Joint Resolution 33 is now in the Senate Ways and Means Committee. Two bills, House Bill 920 and House Bill 1237, in my opinion, take a more realistic approach to property tax relief. As introduced, House Bill 920 establishes a Tax Appeals Court, separating that function from the state Board of Tax Appeals which also makes tax rules.

H.B. 920 will probably include the concept of H.B. 1237 which allows for roll-back of "inside" millage. This would, in effect, freeze unvoted increases in property taxes beginning with the next reappraisal cycle in 1978.

A plan recommended by Governor Rhodes would affect property valuation rather than millage roll-backs. It would freeze property values at the January 1, 1975, level, disallowing tax increases due to inflation since then.

The state Board of Tax Appeals is meeting at the time this is written to take public testimony on such a plan. If the Board of Tax Appeals does approve a value-freeze plan, it will take effect immediately, but may be challenged in court.

Campus Notes

Leigh Hritz earned a 4.0 grade point average this past term at Ohio Dominican College entitling her to a coveted position on the Dean's List.

Miss Hritz, a freshman at Ohio Dominican, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George (Bud) Hritz, 516 Forest Drive. She is majoring in business administration and economics.

Seven area students have been named to the dean's list at Capital University for the first semester.

They are: Emily Dianne Frazer, 346 Meadow Lane; Nancy Eileen Horst, Route 2; Marcia Jean Rhodes, Route 3; and Max David Stebelton, Amanda.

Also included were Robert Eugene Cromley, Jessie Lynn Hosler and Janice Wilson Ramey all three of Ashville.

About 20 per cent of Capital's nearly 2,100 under-graduates were named to the fall honor listing. To be eligible, a student must be enrolled full-time at the university and have earned at least a 3.4 grade average for the semester (on a 4.0 basis).

Witness Study Bares Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — The scene is a threateningly familiar one on city streets:

A man is robbed. A witness helps the victim hail the police, who capture a suspect and take the witness' name and address.

The witness is subpoenaed to testify at the trial. But he does not show up. The victim cannot identify the robber and the case is scratched.

"Uncooperative witness," says the prosecutor. Just another person who didn't want to get involved?

Maybe not, says an Institute for Law and Social Research study.

Working under a federal grant, door-to-door interviewers for the institute talked with 922 witnesses in Washington and its suburbs who had been labeled uncooperative by prosecutors.

In 25 per cent of the cases the people said they wanted to cooperate, but were never contacted. It turned out the police had the wrong address and the witnesses never received their subpoenas.

Doubtless some of the prospective witnesses deliberately gave wrong information to throw the authorities off their trail, said the institute's president, William Hamilton.

But other reasons were found also. Police sometimes took down the address wrong — "P" Street for "T" Street, for instance.

Some officers were observed asking witnesses for their names and addresses within earshot of suspects, making the witnesses fearful to give correct information.

The Washington study was the most ambitious yet, but smaller-scale surveys in Chicago and New York came up with similar results.

A Chicago Crime Commission study indicates that witnesses associated with 33 per cent of 264 serious cases could not be located because of erroneous phone numbers or addresses.

A study of New York City crime victims reported that 16 per cent of 10,000 letters to victims were returned with such notations as "addressee unknown" or "no such street."

The Washington study also concluded that police and prosecutors were failing to properly advise witnesses what they are supposed to do once they are called.

The study revealed that 43 per cent of 594 witnesses said they did not receive an explanation of the major steps of the court process.

For instance, one witness received a subpoena to appear before a grand jury and complied with it. A few weeks later he received a subpoena for the trial, but assumed it was a mistake because he had already testified. So he didn't show up.

Interviewers for the institute talked to witnesses both in ghetto areas of Washington and in prosperous suburban neighborhoods. More than 80 per cent of those interviewed in the city were black, while 70 per cent of those in the suburbs were white.

County Receives Welfare Subsidy

Pickaway County received $25,483.25 for its share of the December state welfare subsidy it has been announced by State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson.

This money helps the county cover the general relief and administration costs of the welfare operation, and includes reimbursement to the county for administering and purchasing family and children services.

Potato Chip War Seen Escalating

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Crunch! Another shot is about to be fired in the continuing war between Pringle's and the potato chip industry.

Pringle's, Procter & Gamble's "newfangled" product that features regularly shaped, evenly stacked chips in a can, won the last battle.

Victory came late last year when the Food and Drug Administration ruled that Pringle's and similar products can use the term "potato chip" as long as they also use the qualifying phrase "made from dried potatoes" on the package.

The Potato Chip Institute International of Cleveland is mapping strategy to strike back. An institute spokesman said Thursday that institute representatives will decide at an Atlanta trade show next month whether to take any action against the FDA ruling. He did not say what sort of moves were being considered.

Pringle's reportedly is pondering a counterattack, although company spokesmen refused to confirm or deny any new moves. Among the rumored possibilities are ridged Pringle's and a new, improved flavor.

The Potato Chip Institute has been fighting Pringle's ever since the product was test-marketed in the late 1960s. In May 1975, Pringle's achieved national distribution and the war escalated. The institute claims Pringle's aren't "real potato chips" since they are made from dried potatoes and have additives not found in the natural products.

A potato chip, says the institute, is a "slice of fresh, raw potato, deep fried in vegetable oil, salted and packaged." No more.

Procter & Gamble spokesmen never denied that their product comes from dehydrated potatoes. They simply argue that a potato is a potato is a potato — even if dried — and, therefore, a potato chip is a potato chip, etc.

The potato chip industry is a $1.5 billion-a-year business. Per capita annual consumption of potato chips, according to the Potato Chip Institute, is 4½ pounds.

The institute spokesman said Pringle's has captured about 16 per cent of the market, "which isn't too bad" from the so-called natural chip makers point of view. Several

Teacher Walkout Threatened

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A wage dispute threatened to boil over into a teachers strike in a northern Ohio public school system today, while a walkout narrowly was averted in a southern school district.

The strike loomed in Brookfield in Trumbull County, about 15 miles north of Warren.

Meanwhile, a strike scheduled for today in the Cincinnati suburb of Mount Healthy was averted when the Mt. Healthy Teachers' Association voted Sunday night to abide by a court order temporarily restraining them from any work stoppage.

In a statement adopted Sunday night, the MHTA said that although the teachers were unwilling to work for a school administration they considered "irresponsible and recalcitrant" they "were willing to work for the court."

The Board of Education obtained a restraining order Saturday from Hamilton County Common Pleas Judge Robert V. Wood.

About 340 teachers in the district serve a student population of about 8,000.

Supt. E.A. Wheaton warned last week that if teachers walked out the school system would pay substitutes twice the normal rate to keep the schools open.

Teachers in the district are seeking an increase in base salary from $7,600 to $8,600.

Teachers in the district had voted last week to authorize a walkout.

Ohio Senate Report

By OAKLEY C. COLLINS
17th District Senator

Property tax rates promise to be one of the hottest issues in this session of the General Assembly, both politically and in terms of their impact on Ohio taxpayers and state revenues. Ohio's 88 counties are currently undergoing a six year cycle of real property reappraisal in which a uniform 35 per cent tax rate is to be instituted as a result of a series of court decisions in the late 60's and early 70's.

In the Park Investment Case the Ohio Supreme Court ruled that constitutional and statutory provisions mandate uniform taxation of real property to preserve the principle of equal taxation. Among the different counties the effective tax rate varied from as much as 40 per cent of market value to as little as 10 per cent.

The court reasoned that a state-mandated tax should be applied equally throughout the state. The state Board of Tax Appeals subsequently set a uniform rate of 35 per cent of real value which goes into effect as county auditors reappraise the value of property in the 1972-77 cycle.

Real property values are now re-established every six years with periodic updates by county auditors. Values are based on a recent sale price, improvement, or sales-ratio - a formula basing value on value of similar property in the neighborhood.

Property is then assessed at 35 per cent of the updated value for tax purposes. Local millage times 35 per cent of the true value determines total property taxes due. A "mill" is equal to $1 tax on $1,000 worth of property. For example, a $10,000 property would be liable for $3,500 of taxes (assessed at 35 per cent). If there were 10 mills in effect that would be 10-1000 times $3,500, or $35 in taxes. Twenty mills would require $70 in taxes.

State law now recognizes two kinds of millage. County budget commissions may levy up to 10 "inside" mills without a vote of the people. "Outside" millage beyond the 10-mill limit requires voter approval. Outside millage is reduced when property values rise to keep total taxes constant, but inside millage cannot be rolled back. Thus, when inflation raises property values, the "mills times assessed value" formula produces an unvoted tax increase.

Because of inflation and the "new" 35 per cent rate property owners in some counties have experienced tax increases of up to 500 per cent. Fifty-eight counties have undergone reappraisal to date. Nineteen will be reappraised in 1976 and the remaining eleven in 1977.

The Legislature is now considering several measures to soften the impact of heavy taxes due to rising property values and the 35 per cent tax rate. Senate Joint Resolution 33 would change Ohio's Constitution to specify three classes of real property for tax purposes: industrial, taxed at a 40 per cent rate; commercial, at a 35 per cent rate; and residential, at a 25 per cent rate.

The stated intent of this resolution is to lighten the property tax load of homeowners, but I believe the unstated intent is to "sock it to business." The Resolution unfortunately sacrifices sound long-range tax policy for political expediency.

Ohio is an industrial state in spite of the fact that it now imposes the fourth highest tax burden on business of any state in the nation. Some plants are now beginning to leave the state and many others are choosing to expand in other states with lower taxes. The added tax burden on business of this proposed resolution would only further dampen the state's economy and would not really help homeowners since the tax would be passed on to consumers through higher prices. Senate Joint Resolution 33 is now in the Senate Ways and Means Committee.

Two bills, House Bill 920 and House Bill 1237, in my opinion, take a more realistic approach to property tax relief. As introduced, House Bill 920 establishes a Tax Appeals Court, separating that function from the state Board of Tax Appeals which also makes tax rules.

H.B. 920 will probably include the concept of H.B. 1237 which allows for roll-back of "inside" millage. This would, in effect, freeze unvoted increases in property taxes beginning with the next reappraisal cycle in 1978.

A plan recommended by Governor Rhodes would affect property valuation rather than millage roll-backs. It would freeze property values at the January 1, 1975, level, disallowing tax increases due to inflation since then.

The state Board of Tax Appeals is meeting at the time this is written to take public testimony on such a plan. If the Board of Tax Appeals does approve a value-freeze plan, it will take effect immediately, but may be challenged in court.

Campus Notes

Leigh Hritz earned a 4.0 grade point average this past term at Ohio Dominican College entitling her to a coveted position on the Dean's List.

Miss Hritz, a freshman at Ohio Dominican, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George (Bud) Hritz, 516 Forest Drive. She is majoring in business administration and economics.

Seven area students have been named to the dean's list at Capital University for the first semester.

They are: Emily Dianne Frazer, 346 Meadow Lane; Nancy Eileen Horst, Route 2; Marcia Jean Rhodes, Route 3; and Max David Stebelton, Amanda.

Also included were Robert Eugene Cromley, Jessie Lynn Hosler and Janice Wilson Ramey all three of Ashville.

About 20 per cent of Capital's nearly 2,100 under-graduates were named to the fall honor listing. To be eligible, a student must be enrolled full-time at the university and have earned at least a 3.4 grade average for the semester (on a 4.0 basis).

Witness Study Bares Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — The scene is a threateningly familiar one on city streets:

A man is robbed. A witness helps the victim hail the police, who capture a suspect and take the witness' name and address.

The witness is subpoenaed to testify at the trial. But he does not show up. The victim cannot identify the robber and the case is scratched.

"Uncooperative witness," says the prosecutor. Just another person who didn't want to get involved? Maybe not, says an Institute for Law and Social Research study.

Working under a federal grant, door-to-door interviewers for the institute talked with 922 witnesses in Washington and its suburbs who had been labeled uncooperative by prosecutors.

In 25 per cent of the cases the people said they wanted to cooperate, but were never contacted. It turned out the police had the wrong address and the witnesses never received their subpoenas.

Doubtless some of the prospective witnesses deliberately gave wrong information to throw the authorities off their trail, said the institute's president, William Hamilton.

But other reasons were found also. Police sometimes took down the address wrong — "P" Street for "T" Street, for instance.

Some officers were observed asking witnesses for their names and addresses within earshot of suspects, making the witnesses fearful to give correct information.

The Washington study was the most ambitious yet, but smaller-scale surveys in Chicago and New York came up with similar results.

A Chicago Crime Commission study indicates that witnesses associated with 33 per cent of 264 serious cases could not be located because of erroneous phone numbers or addresses.

A study of New York City crime victims reported that 16 per cent of 10,000 letters to victims were returned with such notations as "addressee unknown" or "no such street."

The Washington study also concluded that police and prosecutors were failing to properly advise witnesses what they are supposed to do once they are called.

The study revealed that 43 per cent of 594 witnesses said they did not receive an explanation of the major steps of the court process.

For instance, one witness received a

Potato Chip War Seen Escalating

By LOUISE COOK

Crunch!

Another shot is about to be fired in the continuing war between Pringle's and the potato chip industry.

Pringle's, Procter & Gamble's "newfangled" product that features regularly shaped, evenly stacked chips in a can, won the last battle.

Victory came late last year when the Food and Drug Administration ruled that Pringle's and similar products can use the term "potato chip" as long as they also use the qualifying phrase "made from dried potatoes" on the package.

The Potato Chip Institute International of Cleveland is mapping strategy to strike back. An institute spokesman said Thursday that institute representatives will decide at an Atlanta trade show next month whether to take any action against the FDA ruling. He did not say what sort of moves were being considered.

Pringle's reportedly is pondering a counterattack, although company spokesmen refused to confirm or deny any new moves. Among the rumored possibilities are ridged Pringle's and a new, improved flavor.

The Potato Chip Institute has been fighting Pringle's ever since the product was test-marketed in the late 1960s. In May 1975, Pringle's achieved national distribution and the war escalated. The institute claims Pringle's aren't "real potato chips" since they are made from dried potatoes and have additives not found in the natural products.

A potato chip, says the institute, is a "slice of fresh, raw potato, deep fried in vegetable oil, salted and packaged." No more.

Procter & Gamble spokesmen never denied that their product comes from dehydrated potatoes. They simply argue that a potato is a potato is a potato — even if dried — and, therefore, a potato chip is a potato chip, etc.

The potato chip industry is a $1.5 billion-a-year business. Per capita annual consumption of potato chips, according to the Potato Chip Institute, is 4½ pounds.

The institute spokesman said Pringle's has captured about 16 per cent of the market, "which isn't too bad" from the so-called natural chip makers point of view. Several

Settlement In Teacher Strike Seen

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A tentative agreement was reached early today in a nine-week-old strike by city teachers.

A ratification vote was set for 9 a.m. Pittsburgh Federation of Teachers President Albert Fondy was expected to recommend approval by the union's 4,400 members.

The agreement was reached after a marathon bargaining session that began Sunday morning and continued through the night. No details of the pact were released.

A spokesman for the school board said the city's 62,000 pupils would probably be called back to classes later today, following the union's ratification vote. Pupils have been out of class since the strike began Dec. 1.

A break-through apparently came after agreement was reached on how to distribute a reported $10.1-million wage package over two years. A spokesman for the board said talks progressed smoothly after that point was settled.

The tentative agreement came just hours before Fondy faced a possible jail term for contempt of court. A hearing to show cause why 17 union leaders should not be jailed had been postponed by Judge Donald Ziegler Friday after union lawyer Louis Kushner said an agreement was near.

Kushner told the judge the negotiations were at a "critical and delicate" point. Ziegler agreed to postpone the hearing on possible jail terms, but he fined the teachers another $30,000 for a total of $105,000 in contempt fines for ignoring his back-to-work order.

Pupils have been out of class for 31 school days, longest strike in Allegheny County's history. However, a few of the city's 104 schools were opened on a limited basis when almost 600 teachers and aides crossed the picket lines.

OU-L Offers Tax Clinic

The tenth annual income tax clinic for the preparation of individual Federal income tax returns will be held at the Lancaster Campus of Ohio University starting on Feb. 3 and continuing on Tuesday evenings for a total of four meetings. The two-hour sessions will start at 7:30 p.m.

The clinic will aid an individual in preparing the personal income tax return for the 1975 tax year. Income, expenses, business deductions, donations, and other items to be included in the long form 1040 will be given consideration. Recent changes in the Federal Tax Law will be discussed.

Jerry Anderson, a representative of the Internal Revenue Service, Columbus Office, will be the instructor for the course.

Registration in the class can be completed at the campus during regular office hours, 8 a.m. - 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Additional information can be obtained by calling 654-6711, extension 27.

A course in nonverbal communications will also be offered at the Lancaster Campus of Ohio University starting on Feb. 3 and continuing on Tuesday evenings for a total of six sessions.

The class will meet 7:30-9:30 p.m. Utilizing "How To Read a Person Like a Book", by Gerald Nierenberg and Henry Calero, as a springboard to study nonverbal communication, this course will take an introductory look into aspects of body language. The class will attempt to integrate readings, actual observation, simulated roleplaying and nonverbal activity situations, with discussion.

Italian Government Elections Expected

ROME (AP) — The possibility of a national election in Italy this spring or summer with sizable Communist gains increased today following the refusal of the Republican party to join the Christian Democrats in another minority coalition government.

Men Charged In Scuffle

The eyeglasses of one Circleville Policeman and the watch of another were broken while they were attempting to restrain men involved in a fight at Hanley's Bar early Sunday morning.

Ptl. Robert Galer and Jim Ford arrested Norman Davis, 23, 1110 S. Washington St., and Gary Hoffman, 28, 170 Haywood Ave., for disorderly conduct about 2:30 a.m. Sunday at the E. Main St. bar, according to the report.

As they were taking the men to the police cruiser, Hunter Certain, 23, Walnut St., was arrested outside the bar for using profanity and making threats against the officers.

Ptl. Ken Henn assisted the officers in placing Certain in the patrol car, and, during a brief scuffle, Ptl. Henn's glasses dropped to the pavement and were stepped on.

Certain was charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest, while Davis and Hoffman were initially charged with disorderly conduct.

After the men were booked into the police department, Hoffman apparently refused to be placed in jail. Ptl. Galer apparently took his arm, but Hoffman broke loose of his grip and tried to hit the officer, the report claims.

Ptl. Henn and Galer wrestled Hoffman to the floor and took him to a cell. However, in the fight, Galer's wrist watch was broken. It is valued at $41.95.

Hoffman was also charged with resisting.

Nicholas Drive School supervisor Donald Metzger is in the process of conducting an inventory at the school to determine the extent of loss during a weekend robbery.

Thieves broke into the school by punching a small hole in the middle door on the northeast side of the building and using an unidentified object to depress the door handle.

At least three rooms were entered, police said.

Scioto Commandery Inspection Held

The Annual Inspection of Scioto Commandery No. 35, Knights Templar, was held Saturday afternoon at the Masonic Temple on South Court Street.

The special conclave was opened at 2 p.m. by the Eminent Commander, Paul M. Dunkle, and his officers. The work of the order was presented to the local knights and many visitors from throughout the state.

Following the ritual portion, a Full Form Opening was presented at 4:30 p.m. At this time, the guest inspector, S.K. George W. Davidson, Past Grand Commander of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of Ohio, was presented.

Serving on the Inspector's staff were: Aaron Hard Jr., Em. Grand Sword Bearer; Robert Winans and Richard Dennis, Deputy Division Commanders; James McBride, 5th Division Deputy Division Commander; Guy O. Sark, Harry E. Sark and Wayne Cryder, KYCH recipients.

At this time, ten commanders were presented along with 21 guest officers and past commanders. In addition, Scioto Commandery was represented by 20 past commanders.

During the afternoon, the ladies were entertained by the Circleville Boys' Choir at the Good Shepherd U. M. Church. The choir, founded by the commander, was directed by the accompanist, Randy Wolfe.

A Memorial Service for the departed Knights was conducted by Joseph Peters, Prelate of the local body. This service was attended by all 166 people for the inspection.

The evening meal ended the days activities. This was served by members of the local DeMolay Chapter assisted by members of the Mothers' Club.

Patrolman Of Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Patrolman James H. Reed, 31, of Columbus has been named the 1975 Ohio State Highway Patrolman of the Year, the Highway Patrol announced.

Farm Date Book Released By USDA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government today offered for sale a 621-page paperback book at $5.15 per volume that could help settle barnyard arguments and provide almost endless source material for writing letters to Congress and to local editors.

Not only that, the price of "Agricultural Statistics 1975" is 14.2 per cent less than the 1974 edition, which sold for $6 per volume. And the new version has two pages more.

A spokesman said that the 1975 edition cost less to publish because "maybe there was a hungry printer" who bid much less. The price of the report jumped nearly one-third when it went to $6 last year from $4.55 for the 1973 edition.

The annual report, compiled by the Agriculture Department, is sold by the Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20402, which also handles the printing contracts.

Although it has no illustrations, the volume has thousands of figures on subjects ranging from abaca (Manila hemp), birdsfoot, trefoil seed to the average price paid for western hemlock timber and how many cattle there are in Zambia.

For those interested in the metric system, which is the common language of international trade, the "Ag Stats" book, as it is called in USDA, has figures for converting bushels into metric tons and vice versa. The metric ton, 2,204.6 pounds, is the equivalent of 36.7 bushels of wheat, for example. Besides production and value figures for a wide assortment of U.S. crops and livestock, the report includes tables showing farm expenses and income in recent years; the number of farms and average acreages in the country; government farm subsidies; meat consumption; food-stamp subsidies; farm exports, and the production and import statistics for some foreign countries.

Settlement In Teacher Strike Seen

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A tentative agreement was reached early today in a nine-week-old strike by city teachers.

A ratification vote was set for 9 a.m. Pittsburgh Federation of Teachers President Albert Fondy was expected to recommend approval by the union's 4,400 members.

The agreement was reached after a marathon bargaining session that began Sunday morning and continued through the night. No details of the pact were released.

A spokesman for the school board said the city's 62,000 pupils would probably be called back to classes later today, following the union's ratification vote. Pupils have been out of class since the strike began Dec. 1.

A break-through apparently came after agreement was reached on how to distribute a reported $10.1-million wage package over two years. A spokesman for the board said talks progressed smoothly after that point was settled.

The tentative agreement came just hours before Fondy faced a possible jail term for contempt of court. A hearing to show cause why 17 union leaders should not be jailed had been postponed by Judge Donald Ziegler Friday after union lawyer Louis Kushner said an agreement was near.

Kushner told the judge the negotiations were at a "critical and delicate" point. Ziegler agreed to postpone the hearing on possible jail terms, but he fined the teachers another $30,000 for a total of $105,000 in contempt fines for ignoring his back-to-work order.

Pupils have been out of class for 31 school days, longest strike in Allegheny County's history. However, a few of the city's 104 schools were opened on a limited basis when almost 600 teachers and aides crossed the picket lines.

OU-L Offers Tax Clinic

The tenth annual income tax clinic for the preparation of individual Federal income tax returns will be held at the Lancaster Campus of Ohio University starting on Feb. 3 and continuing on Tuesday evenings for a total of four meetings. The two-hour sessions will start at 7:30 p.m.

The clinic will aid an individual in preparing the personal income tax return for the 1975 tax year. Income, expenses, business deductions, donations, and other items to be included in the long form 1040 will be given consideration. Recent changes in the Federal Tax Law will be discussed.

Jerry Anderson, a representative of the Internal Revenue Service, Columbus Office, will be the instructor for the course.

Registration in the class can be completed at the campus during regular office hours, 8 a.m. -5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Additional information can be obtained by calling 654-6711, extension 27.

A course in nonverbal communications will also be offered at the Lancaster Campus of Ohio University starting on Feb. 3 and continuing on Tuesday evenings for a total of six sessions.

The class will meet 7:30-9:30 p.m. Utilizing "How To Read a Person Like a Book", by Gerald Nierenberg and Henry Calero, as a springboard to study nonverbal communication, this course will take an introductory look into aspects of body language. The class will attempt to integrate readings, actual observation, simulated roleplaying and nonverbal activity situations, with discussion.

Italian Government Elections Expected

ROME (AP) — The possibility of a national election in Italy this spring or summer with sizable Communist gains increased today following the refusal of the Republican party to join the Christian Democrats in another minority coalition government.

Premier-designate Aldo Moro, who headed the Christian Democratic-Republican cabinet that resigned 19 days ago, reported to President Giovanni Leone Sunday night that he had been unable to line up allies to give

Men Charged In Scuffle

The eyeglasses of one Circleville Policeman and the watch of another were broken while they were attempting to restrain men involved in a fight at Hanley's Bar early Sunday morning.

Ptl. Robert Galer and Jim Ford arrested Norman Davis, 23, 1110 S. Washington St., and Gary Hoffman, 28, 170 Hayward Ave., for disorderly conduct about 2:30 a.m. Sunday at the E. Main St. bar, according to the report.

As they were taking the men to the police cruiser, Hunter Certain, 23, Walnut St., was arrested outside the bar for using profanity and making threats against the officers.

Ptl. Ken Henn assisted the officers in placing Certain in the patrol car, and, during a brief scuffle, Ptl. Henn's glasses dropped to the pavement and were stepped on.

Certain was charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest, while Davis and Hoffman were initially charged with disorderly conduct.

After the men were booked into the police department, Hoffman apparently refused to be placed in jail. Ptl. Galer apparently took his arm, but Hoffman broke loose of his grip and tried to hit the officer, the report claims.

Ptl. Henn and Galer wrestled Hoffman to the floor and took him to a cell. However, in the fight, Galer's wrist watch was broken. It is valued at $41.95.

Hoffman was also charged with resisting. Nicholas Drive School supervisor Donald Metzger is in the process of conducting an inventory at the school to determine the extent of loss during a weekend robbery.

Thieves broke into the school by punching a small hole in the middle door on the northeast side of the building and using an unidentified object to depress the door handle.

At least three rooms were entered, police said.

the Christian Democrats a majority in the Chamber of Deputies.

Moro, 59-year-old leader of four previous cabinets, appeared to have two choices. Either most likely would lead to election of a new parliament a year ahead of time.

One would be a one-party government of Christian Democrats only. Though the party is Italy's largest and has dominated the political scene ever since World War II, it is some 50 seats short of a majority in the lower house of Parliament, and such a minority government would probably last only a month or two.

A second option would be for Leone to throw the crisis to Parliament and have Moro ask for a vote of confidence in his last government of Christian Democrats and Republicans, now serving as a caretaker cabinet. That, too, would probably postpone the day of reckoning only a month or two.

Political analysts feel that either option would end in an election and certain gains by the Communists. The party polled 27 per cent of the vote in the 1972 parliamentary election but hiked its share to 33 per cent — only two percentage points behind the Christian Democrats — in nationwide local and regional elections last June.

Having shed much of their revolutionary fervor and made a reputation for efficient government in the numerous local administrations they control, the Communists have been pressing to be included in the government. They disclaim any allegiance to the Kremlin, vow to work within the parliamentary system and say that Italy cannot be ruled without their participation.

With more than 1.4 million of Italy's 20 million workers unemployed, the jobless rate is now 7 per cent; the foreign exchange markets have been closed since last Wednesday to prevent the collapse of the lira; and the country's rate of economic growth last year was zero.

Scioto Commandery Inspection Held

The Annual Inspection of Scioto Commandery No. 35, Knights Templar, was held Saturday afternoon at the Masonic Temple on South Court Street.

The special convocation was opened at 2 p.m. by the Eminent Commander, Paul M. Dunkle, and his officers. The work of the order was presented to the local knights and many visitors from throughout the state.

Following the ritual portion, a Full Form Opening was presented at 4:30 p.m. At this time, the guest inspector, S.K. George W. Davidson, Past Grand Commander of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of Ohio, was presented.

Serving on the Inspector's staff were: Aaron Hard Jr., Em. Grand Sword Bearer; Robert Winans and Richard Dennis, Deputy Division Commanders; James McBride, 5th Division Deputy Division Commander; Guy O. Sark, Harry E. Sark and Wayne Cryder, KYCH recipients.

At this time, ten commanders were presented along with 21 guest officers and past commanders. In addition, Scioto Commandery was represented by 20 past commanders.

During the afternoon, the ladies were entertained by the Circleville Boys' Choir at the Good Shepherd U. M. Church. The choir, founded by the commander, was directed by the accompanist, Randy Wolfe.

A Memorial Service for the departed Knights was conducted by Joseph Peters, Prelate of the local body. This service was attended by all 166 people for the inspection.

The evening meal ended the days activities. This was served by members of the local DeMolay Chapter assisted by members of the Mothers' Club.

Patrolman Of Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Patrolman James H. Reed, 31, of Columbus has been named the 1975 Ohio State Highway Patrolman of the Year, the Highway Patrol announced.

Farm Date Book Released By USDA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government today offered for sale a 621-page paperback book at $5.15 per volume that could help settle barnyard arguments and provide almost endless source material for writing letters to Congress and to local editors.

Not only that, the price of "Agricultural Statistics 1975" is 14.2 per cent less than the 1974 edition, which sold for $6 per volume. And the new version has two pages more.

A spokesman said that the 1975 edition cost less to publish because "maybe there was a hungry printer" who bid much less. The price of the report jumped nearly one-third when it went to $6 last year from $4.55 for the 1973 edition.

The annual report, compiled by the Agriculture Department, is sold by the Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20402, which also handles the printing contracts.

Although it has no illustrations, the volume has thousands of figures on subjects ranging from abaca (Manila hemp), birdsfoot, trefoil seed to the average price paid for western hemlock timber and how many cattle there are in Zambia.

For those interested in the metric system, which is the common language of international trade, the "Ag Stats" book, as it is called in USDA, has figures for converting bushels into metric tons and vice versa. The metric ton, 2,204.6 pounds, is the equivalent of 36.7 bushels of wheat, for example.

Besides production and value figures for a wide assortment of U.S. crops and livestock, the report includes tables showing farm expenses and income in recent years; the number of farms and average acreages in the country; government farm subsidies; meat consumption; food-stamp subsidies; farm exports, and the production and import statistics for some foreign countries.

Computerized Mail Routes Could Save $40 Million

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — The U.S. Postal Service could save millions of dollars a year and provide better service by using computers to help design its truck routes, a Kansas State University economist says.

Leonard W. Schruben, who has developed computerized routes for school buses as well as bakery, dairy and meat firms, based the estimate on an analysis he said indicates that his approach could save $80,000 annually in the Topeka area.

"Computerized routes would result in earlier mail delivery to many communities in the Topeka mail distribution center," he said Friday. "In no case would mail be delivered later than with manually designated routes."

He said his study, carried out with a graduate student as a practical study project, suggests that the Postal Service might save nearly $500,000 a year if computerized routing was used throughout Kansas. Extending the approach to all 545 mail distribution centers in the United States might save as much as $40 million a year, he estimated.

Postal Service officials have estimated they will end the fiscal year June 30 with a record $1.4 billion deficit. They say they are falling behind at a rate of $7 million a day.

Schruben said the dispatchers who now design postal routes are "a cut above the average," and noted that a computerized system would assist, not replace, their work on a complicated task.

"A truck delivering to only 13 post offices from any distribution facility can be routed more than three billion ways with no duplication," he said. "Multiply the number of post offices by 10 and you get an idea of the problems facing dispatchers who design routes manually in the Topeka center."

The largest steel arch bridge in the world is the Sydney Harbor Bridge.

Schruben said the Topeka center, which covers a 75-milewide corridor in western Kansas, has contracts with the owners of 32 trucks that transport mail to 133 local post offices, stations and branches.

He said his analysis showed that the job could be done by 20 contract trucks that would log 150,000 fewer miles a year. He calculated that the estimated $80,000 in annual savings would come from reductions in both fixed and operational costs.

Computerized Mail Routes Could Save $40 Million

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — The U.S. Postal Service could save millions of dollars a year and provide better service by using computers to help design its truck routes, a Kansas State University economist says.

Leonard W. Schruben, who has developed computerized routes for school buses as well as bakery, dairy and meat firms, based the estimate on an analysis he said indicates that his approach could save $80,000 annually in the Topeka area.

"Computerized routes would result in earlier mail delivery to many communities in the Topeka mail distribution center," he said Friday. "In no case would mail be delivered later than with manually designated routes."

He said his study, carried out with a graduate student as a practical study project, suggests that the Postal Service might save nearly $500,000 a year if computerized routing was used throughout Kansas. Extending the approach to all 545 mail distribution centers in the United States might save as much as $40 million a year, he estimated.

Postal Service officials have estimated they will end the fiscal year June 30 with a record $1.4 billion deficit. They say they are falling behind at a rate of $7 million a day.

Schruben said the dispatchers who now design postal routes are "a cut above the average," and noted that a computerized system would assist, not replace, their work on a complicated task.

"A truck delivering to only 13 post offices from any distribution facility can be routed more than three billion ways with no duplication," he said. "Multiply the number of post offices by 10 and you get an idea of the problems facing dispatchers who design routes manually in the Topeka center."

The largest steel arch bridge in the world is the Sydney Harbor Bridge.

Schruben said the Topeka center, which covers a 75-milewide corridor in western Kansas, has contracts with the owners of 32 trucks that transport mail to 133 local post offices, stations and branches.

He said his analysis showed that the job could be done by 20 contract trucks that would log 150,000 fewer miles a year. He calculated that the estimated $80,000 in annual savings would come from reductions in both fixed and operational costs.

Woman Priest Raps Episcopal Bishops

OVERLIN, Ohio (AP) — A woman priest who is joining Christ Church members forming an Episcopal "church in exile" says she will continue to denounce bishops who she says manipulate canon law and abuse church people "in the name of good church order."

The Rev. Carter Heyward said at a leave-taking service in Christ Church

Sunday that she was referring to leaders "such as Bishop (John) Burt" of the Ohio Diocese of the Episcopal church.

Bishop Burt warned Christ Church last October that the parish faced possible expulsion from the denomination if it continued to violate church law restricting the priesthood to men.

The Rev. L. Peter Beebe told his congregation at the 2½-hour service Sunday that he will remain as rector of Christ Church "in name only" but will not resign. The Rev. Mr. Beebe has said previously the church and Bishop Burt will have to fire him to get him out of Christ Church.

The Rev. Miss Heyward and the Rev. Alison Cheek of Annandale, Va., said they will continue to come to Oberlin once a month and will work with the church in exile.

About 135 persons attended the leave-taking service, and many members of the congregation rose to speak in support of the Rev. Mr. Beebe.

After the service, Beebe's supporters marched six blocks in the rain to the home of a member of the new exile community to discuss plans for future services.

Meanwhile, a splinter group which had moved its services to Fairchild Chapel on the Oberlin College campus because of opposition to Beebe's policies announced that it will return to Christ Church next week.

Although the congregation has been split about equally between Beebe supporters and opponents, the rector was supported until last week by a majority of the members of the vestry, the church's ruling body.

All eight Beebe supporters on the vestry resigned last Monday.

A parish meeting is scheduled for next Sunday when new vestry members are to be elected.

Church sources have said it would be up to the new vestry to take action for the rector's removal.

Woody Hayes Hints He'll Stay Around

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Woody Hayes, calm, collected and saying nothing yet about the Rose Bowl, gives every indication he will remain Ohio State's football coach until 1983.

That would be the year Hayes reaches the mandatory retirement age of 70.

"We can put good teams on the field at Ohio State for years to come," he said during the Buckeyes' football dinner Sunday night. "We are sure not going to live with Arch (Griffin) and his class."

Kenyon College in Ohio was a pioneer among colleges teaching aviation, and for three years in a row its flying club was national champion.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Should Practice What Doc Doesn't

DEAR ABBY: I wanted to start the New Year right, so I went to my doctor for a complete physical checkup.

He told me I had to lose 30 pounds and I had to quit smoking.

Well, I wish you could have seen this doctor. His stomach was hanging over his belt. If he'd been a woman you would have sworn he was in his eighth month!

All the while he talked to me he was smoking up a storm. I noticed the ashtray he was using had about eight cigarette butts in it-all less than a quarter of an inch long.

Abby, this doctor is supposed to be the best. Can you tell me how a patient is supposed to have confidence in a doctor who can't do what he orders his patients to do?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Just because he lacks the willpower to lose weight and quit smoking does not mean he's a poor physician. It only means he's afflicted with the same weakness that some of his patients are.

DEAR ABBY: I work 10 hours a day. I teach school in poverty areas and teach English to Vietnamese people after school.

When I get home to my large, four-bedroom house, I am tired, but I must resume my "housewife" role.

Since my husband and I have no children, it is assumed by our friends that I have nothing to do.

My husband sometimes reluctantly "helps" me with the housework. Since I work as hard as he does, why doesn't he come home automatically start the housework so I can "help him?"

We've talked about this, but he doesn't seem to understand. Do you? Thanks for listening.

BUSHED

DEAR BUSHED: If your husband doesn't understand, it's because he doesn't want to. He's still playing with yesterday's rules. Educate him.

DEAR ABBY: I just read where they are trying to pass a law in North Carolina to make all horse owners put DIAPERS on their horses in order to keep the streets clean.

I know it sounds crazy, but if you think about it, it makes a lot of sense. I hope they pass that law. And after that, maybe it will catch on and they'll do the same thing for dogs!

FED UP IN N.Y.

DEAR FED: And now let's hear it for pigeons!

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope please.

Woman Hurt In Accident

A Circleville woman, Betty L. Woods, 225 Watt St., was treated at Berger Hospital for injuries she suffered in a two-car accident 3:50 p.m. Saturday at the intersection of N. Court and Watt Sts.

Circleville Police said Mrs. Woods' car was hit in the side by a vehicle driven by Martha D. Timmons, 21, Route 3.

Ms. Timmons was apparently southbound on Court St. and in the process of making a left turn onto Watt St.

She was arrested for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol or drugs.

Passenger in the car was Richard H. Woltz, 21, 130 E. High St.

Woman Priest Raps Episcopal Bishops

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP) — A woman priest who is joining Christ Church members forming an Episcopal "church in exile" says she will continue to denounce bishops who she says manipulate canon law and abuse church people "in the name of good church order."

The Rev. Carter Heyward said at a leave-taking service in Christ Church

Sunday that she was referring to leaders "such as Bishop (John) Burt" of the Ohio Diocese of the Episcopal church.

Bishop Burt warned Christ Church last October that the parish faced possible expulsion from the denomination if it continued to violate church law restricting the priesthood to men.

The Rev. L. Peter Beebe told his congregation at the 2½-hour service Sunday that he will remain as rector of Christ Church "in name only" but will not resign. The Rev. Mr. Beebe has said previously the church and Bishop Burt will have to fire him to get him out of Christ Church.

The Rev. Miss Heyward and the Rev. Alison Cheek of Annandale, Va., said they will continue to come to Oberlin once a month and will work with the church in exile.

About 135 persons attended the leave-taking service, and many members of the congregation rose to speak in support of the Rev. Mr. Beebe.

After the service, Beebe's supporters marched six blocks in the rain to the home of a member of the new exile community to discuss plans for future services.

Meanwhile, a splinter group which had moved its services to Fairchild Chapel on the Oberlin College campus because of opposition to Beebe's policies announced that it will return to Christ Church next week.

Although the congregation has been split about equally between Beebe supporters and opponents, the rector was supported until last week by a majority of the members of the vestry, the church's ruling body.

All eight Beebe supporters on the vestry resigned last Monday.

A parish meeting is scheduled for next Sunday when new vestry members are to be elected.

Church sources have said it would be up to the new vestry to take action for the rector's removal.

Woody Hayes Hints He'll Stay Around

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Woody Hayes, calm, collected and saying nothing yet about the Rose Bowl, gives every indication he will remain Ohio State's football coach until 1983.

That would be the year Hayes reaches the mandatory retirement age of 70.

"We can put good teams on the field at Ohio State for years to come," he said during the Buckeyes' football dinner Sunday night. "We are sure not going to live with Arch (Griffin) and his class."

Kenyon College in Ohio was a pioneer among colleges teaching aviation, and for three years in a row its flying club was national champion.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Should Practice What Doc Doesn't

DEAR ABBY: I wanted to start the New Year right, so I went to my doctor for a complete physical checkup.

He told me I had to lose 30 pounds and I had to quit smoking.

Well, I wish you could have seen this doctor. His stomach was hanging over his belt. If he'd been a woman you would have sworn he was in his eighth month!

All the while he talked to me he was smoking up a storm. I noticed the ashtray he was using had about eight cigarette butts in it-all less than a quarter of an inch long.

Abby, this doctor is supposed to be the best. Can you tell me how a patient is supposed to have confidence in a doctor who can't do what he orders his patients to do?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Just because he lacks the willpower to lose weight and quit smoking does not mean he's a poor physician. It only means he's afflicted with the same weakness that some of his patients are.

DEAR ABBY: I work 10 hours a day. I teach school in poverty areas and teach English to Vietnamese people after school.

When I get home to my large, four-bedroom house, I am tired, but I must resume my "housewife" role.

Since my husband and I have no children, it is assumed by our friends that I have nothing to do.

My husband sometimes reluctantly "helps" me with the housework. Since I work as hard as he does, why doesn't he come home automatically start the housework so I can "help him?"

We've talked about this, but he doesn't seem to understand. Do you? Thanks for listening.

BUSHED

DEAR BUSHED: If your husband doesn't understand, it's because he doesn't want to. He's still playing with yesterday's rules. Educate him.

DEAR ABBY: I just read where they are trying to pass a law in North Carolina to make all horse owners put DIAPERS on their horses in order to keep the streets clean.

I know it sounds crazy, but if you think about it, it makes a lot of sense. I hope they pass that law. And after that, maybe it will catch on and they'll do the same thing for dogs!

FEDUP IN N.Y.

DEAR FED: And now let's hear it for pigeons!

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope please.

Wallace Savoring Precinct Victory In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Alabama Gov. George Wallace says his victory in Mississippi's Democratic precinct caucuses is proof that his popularity in the South has not slipped.

As returns continued to trickle in from Saturday's caucuses, Wallace led former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia by a margin of better than 3 to 1.

Wallace said Sunday that the showing would help his campaign, but he refused to speculate on whether the results would hurt Carter's bid for the presidential nomination.

"I think some of the national press was ready to write that Wallace was slipping in the South, that he'd lose in Mississippi," Wallace said. "It turned out ... we certainly haven't slipped."

Carter, meanwhile, said the results indicated that Wallace remains a stronger presidential candidate than some had thought.

Saturday's caucuses, held at 2,133 precincts across Mississippi, were the first of four steps leading to the selection of the state's delegates to Democratic national convention.

As tallying continued in rural counties, it appeared likely that Wallace had won a majority of the delegates to the state party's Feb. 14 county conventions.

With 48 per cent of the estimated 3,000 county convention delegates tallied, 45 per cent of the delegates were pledged to Wallace and 27 per cent were uncommitted.

Carter had 13 per cent and Sargent Shriver had 12 per cent, mostly from black precincts. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas and ormer Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma had about 1 per cent each.

Wallace's percentage was expected to increase today as rural precincts were tallied.

His campaign coordinators said the late-reporting rural counties, most of which are predominantly white, would give their candidate at least 55 per cent of the total.

The percentage of delegates chosen at the precinct level will give a general indication of who will control Mississippi's 24 votes at the Democratic national convention.

However, an unknown factor in the complicated delegate selection system is which way the uncommitted votes will swing at the county and congressional district conventions.

Elsewhere, there were these additional political developments:

—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., repeating past declarations that he will not enter primaries but would accept a convention nomination if it is offered, said he hopes the announced Democratic hopefuls will not combine forces to defeat Wallace.

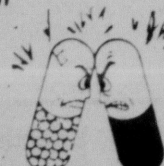

"I hope and pray they don't," Humphrey said on ABC's "Issues and Answers." "That's the one thing the Democrats don't need is some more ganging up."

Answering questions about whether Wallace would be nominated for the vice presidential spot, Humphrey said, "I certainly would not recommend him if I were the nominee and I seriously doubt the convention would nominate him."

Top Items On Assembly Agenda

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Property tax relief, reform of the utility rate structure, and teaching of the metric system in public schools top the agenda this week as the legislature winds up the first month of 1976 activity.

The Senate Ways and Means Committee will consider tonight a proposed constitutional amendment that would allow the state to tax homeowners at a lower rate than industrial and commercial property.

That same Senate panel will get its first look Wednesday at legislation to repeal the Reconstruction Cost New (RCN) formula which is used by the state as a starting point, or rate base, for setting gas, electric and telephone rates. A regulatory spokesman described the bill as "pro consumer" after it was reported out last week by a subcommittee.

On Tuesday, a House utilities committee plans a vote on its own version of rate reform.

The House bill also would do away with RCN, but the "fair value" formula proposed as a replacement has been attacked by some legislators and consumer types as pro utility.

Rep. Dennis Wojtanowski, D-74 Willoughby, the original sponsor of the bill, wants utilities to be held to their original costs in plants and equipment when applying for rate increases. Fair value and RCN are both equipped with built-in inflation adjustment factors.

The bottom line—the effect of any change in the rate structures on ratepayers bills—has yet to be clearly delineated.

Also on Tuesday, the House Ways and Means Committee will try again to ready a bill that would offer tax credits for homeowners hit by inflationary increases in the value of their property. The complex tax relief measure bogged down in a slew of amendments last week.

The full House membership will vote Tuesday on legislation that would require Ohio public schools to teach the metric system as part of the regular mathematics system.

The bill is in line with a new federal law signed by President Ford last month which will start the transitional process of changing over from the "customary system" to metric weights and measures.

Steve Meiring, head of the mathematics division for the Department of Education, said opposition to the metric changeover appeared to be fading because, "It is indeed national policy and it's coming whether they like it or not."

Meiring said the state legislation would not have any immediate drastic impact on the Ohio education system although the long-range intent is to integrate the metric system with the entire curriculum.

For the time being, however, districts will not be required to replace their math books with metric materials until the editions in use expire. In fact, Meiring said most districts already provide some instruction in the metric system.

—On the Republican side, President Ford's newest political adviser declared the President "is on the way up" against challenger Ronald Reagan, former governor of California.

Rogers C.B. Morton, on NBC's "Meet the Press," said now that Reagan is concentrating on the issues, voters will have more than personality to judge the two on.

"Ford is on the way up and will do very well," said Morton, the outgoing Commerce Secretary who will become White House counsellor and advise Ford on domestic and political issues.

Morton said Ford will not quit the race and asserted that the "common sense" proposals articulated in the President's State of the Union message and fiscal 1977 budget will gain Ford support.

—The Washington Institute for Women said an informal survey of major presidential campaign organizations shows that women hold only 18 per cent of the top jobs.

Launch Plan To Strengthen Lebanon Truce

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian, Lebanese and Palestinian army officers launched a 36-hour program today to separate the Moslem and Christian combatants in Lebanon's civil war.

Truce teams toured a six-mile front line bisecting Beirut, ordering militias on both sides to pull back. Using bullhorns, they announced that the leaders of the Christian and Moslem private armies had agreed that military equipment could be moved in to remove all street barricades.

A police spokesman reported Moslem militiamen kidnapped a Syrian and a Lebanese officer in the downtown business district but freed them after 15 minutes.

In the Moslem half of the capital, steel-helmeted troops of the Palestine Liberation Army stood guard at hotels, shops, money changers' stalls and street markets that reopened for the first time in two months.

PLA patrols also policed fashionable Hamra street and the seaside Raouche residential area.

With the new cease-fire in its fourth day, police reported five persons killed and seven wounded in sniping and other scattered incidents in Beirut during the night. But a spokesman said this was "minor, with no serious effect on the ceasefire or the steady progress toward resuming normal life in the country."

All Lebanon's international highways were declared open for traffic, and food and fuel shortages in Beirut eased. Truckloads of flour and vegetables rolled in from Damascus. Fuel trucks arrived from the refinery in Zahrani, 30 miles south of Beirut.

Thousands of Beirut residents celebrated the return of peace under the watchful eyes of Palestinian patrols Sunday, but occasional gunfire was heard at scattered points along the dividing line between the Moslem and Christian sectors.

"customary system" to metric weights and measures.

Steve Meiring, head of the mathematics division for the Department of Education, said opposition to the metric changeover appeared to be fading because, "It is indeed national policy and it's coming whether they like it or not."

Meiring said the state legislation would not have any immediate drastic impact on the Ohio education system although the long-range intent is to integrate the metric system with the entire curriculum.

For the time being, however, districts will not be required to replace their math books with metric materials until the editions in use expire. In fact, Meiring said most districts already provide some instruction in the metric system.

Who'd want to invest in a bunch of revolutionaries?

They didn't exactly look like winners.

But then our revolutionary army beat the British at Saratoga in 1777.

And people recognized Washington's men as an army, rather than a band of renegades.

So faith was won as well as a battle. And investments in our government's securities started picking up.

It took courage to take stock in America back then. But it paid off.

And it can do the same for you now.

Just join the Payroll Savings Plan, or buy U.S. Savings Bonds at your bank. There's no safer, easier way to build your savings.

So, buy the specially designed Bicentennial Series E Bonds.

Those brave revolutionaries would be proud.

Series E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4½% the first year). Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Harsha Reports

BY WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
Sixth District Of Ohio

Congress is back for another try at facing up to its fiscal responsibilities, with the added distraction of a Presidential election.

Traditionally, congressional accomplishments during such an election year have been relatively few. I hope that this Congress will be an exception. Certainly the magnitude of problems facing the nation — inflation, unemployment, energy shortages, and the like — have not diminished, but the will to solve them may well have.

The First Session of the 94th Congress was one of confrontation between the Congress and the Administration over spending. What was earlier billed as a veto-proof Congress, turned out to be anything but that. In fact, so far, President Ford has vetoed no less than 17 bills approved by Congress last year. Only three have been overridden.

Rhetoric about fiscal responsibility was plentiful during the First Session, but little was forthcoming in the way of action. Several attempts to place a $395 billion cap on Fiscal 1977 spending were unsuccessful. Only this week, the President called for a slightly smaller budget of $394.2 billion.

Congress will have an opportunity to demonstrate its seriousness about making new budget procedures work. This is the first time the Budget committees have been charged with more than a "trial run" on budget matters.

Harbor Money In U.S. Budget

BUFFALO, New York (AP) — The President's fiscal year 1977 budget contains over $1 million for Huron and Sandusky harbors, the Buffalo district of the Corps of Engineers announced.

The funds would be used to maintain the two harbors.

The budget also contained requests for $2,856,000 for Corps of Engineers projects in Ashtabula and Lake counties.

The funds are to be used for harbors at Conneaut, Ashtabula and Fairport. Some $1.9 million would be used to modify the Ashtabula Harbor, the announcement said. The remainder of the funds would be used to continue routine corps operation and maintenance.

Red Cross Board Meets Wednesday

Board of Directors of Pickaway County Chapter of the American Red Cross will meet 8 p.m. Wednesday at the chapter house to make decisions about housing and cars.

The big question is whether various political blocs will be willing to accept the discipline of budget controls when these conflict with their desire to continue lavish spending.

One issue certain to receive attention is tax reform and an extension of the income tax cut approved in December. As a condition of the six-month extension in reduced taxes, Congress pledged restraint in Fiscal Year 1977 spending outlays. That will be a challenge indeed for the big spenders in this Congress.

President Ford has proposed that the tax cut be raised by $10 billion, setting the total cut at about $28 billion, which is what he originally proposed.

Since the House did not act on proposals to deregulate the price of new natural gas in 1975, the natural gas industry can be expected to renew its campaign to have all price controls dropped — and at a considerable cost in increased prices to consumers.

Committee hearings now underway have disclosed some shocking evidence of the natural gas industry's failure to deliver on contracts, understating reserves, and slowing production to force congressional submission to their demands for deregulation.

National health insurance legislation is not expected to come before Congress during this session, but catastrophic illness insurance proposals for the elderly may, since the President said in his State of the Union message that he intends to propose such a plan, under which medicare recipients would pay no more than $500 a year in hospital bills and $250 in doctor's fees.

Advocates of gun control can be expected to push for legislation in this session aimed at outlawing handguns, and national registration. Their effort continues to be misdirected — attacking guns, instead of the criminals who use them.

Now that House and Senate intelligence investigations are drawing to a close, proposals to create oversight committees to monitor CIA and other secret intelligence operations will almost certainly come before Congress. The systematic disclosure of CIA intelligence activities casts considerable doubt on the future effectiveness of such operations.

Given the pitfalls of an election year, it is possible that this Congress will bypass the sensible spending limits proposed by the President in favor of "Christmas Tree" legislation with something for everybody.

The American people deserve better. Those of my colleagues who foolishly choose this course should be aware that more and more people are coming to realize what many of us have been saying for years — that all of us pay for record federal deficits through inflation.

Myths Influencing Tax Policy?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — While state government officials wrestle with the complexities of Ohio's tax structure, an Ohio State economist says "four myths" continue to influence tax policy decisions.

"These are widely held but mistaken beliefs that influence tax policy-making in directions that seem to me to be harmful to the state's economy and the citizens of Ohio," Dr. Frederick D. Stocker says.

The number one myth, and the hardest for most Ohioans to accept, is that Ohio taxes are not high.

"There is probably no taxpayer anywhere in the country who does not feel that he is overtaxed," Stocker told the legislature's Joint Economic Conference. "Ohioans have substantially less basis for this opinion than citizens of most other states."

According to Stocker, Ohio in 1973-74 was 42nd among 50 states in total general revenue per capita from tax sources.

In fact, he contended, "there was no category of public revenue (tax money) in which Ohio was even close to the national per capita average. In terms of revenue per $1,000 personal income, Ohio remains where it was before 1971—at or next to the lowest in the nation."

Stocker, a professor of economics and public administration who helped frame the state income tax law in 1971, says the income tax has proven to be "one of the most innocuous taxes of its sorts in the nation."

"Only at the low end of the income scale (under $5,000), where Ohio collects small positive amounts of tax while many other states either impose none or offer rebates, are Ohio effective rates above the median for income tax states," he said.

Stocker's second myth is that "taxes imposed on business are somehow not paid by ordinary people."

Rubbish, he says. "In the final analysis, all taxes reduce the real income of some real, live person...in the form of higher prices...lower earnings...or reduced net earnings."

Myth number three: Stocker argues that proposals for selective tax exemptions, tax rebates and tax freezes is a dangerous approach to economic development.

"An attitude of skepticism is especially appropriate with respect to claims that tax reduction will stimulate economic development to the degree that more revenue will be collected rather than less," he said. "Far more likely, in my judgment, tax abatement devices produce little results but can be very costly in terms of lost revenue, which must be made up by other taxpayers."

Assorted efforts by the state to provide real property tax relief cost the state $578 million in lost revenue over the past three and a half years," reports the Ohio Public Expenditure Council, an independent research group.

The final myth, says Stocker, is that across the board property tax relief deserves a top spot on the tax reform agenda.

Although property taxes continue to rise and "some people and some industries and some communities pay very high taxes," the economist says, "the average Ohio homeowner's property taxes are low in comparison to those he would pay in most other industrial states."

The tax reform priority, Stocker says, should be in the area of business taxes which need to be applied on a more uniform basis.

City, County Receive Funds

Pickaway County received $12,500 and Circleville $212.61 in the January distribution of local government fund money from the state treasurer.

The distribution is made monthly by taking 3.5 per cent of the previous month's collections of the state income tax, state sales tax and state corporation tax. The use of the percentage factor causes the amount available monthly to the local governmental units to fluctuate according to Thomas E. Ferguson, auditor of the state.

Tigers Battle Braves In County Tilt

The two county league leaders will battle it out Tuesday night when the Tigers of Circleville travel to Logan Elm to meet the Braves.

Circleville is currently leading the South Central Ohio League with a record of 8-1, 10-1 on the season, while Logan Elm is tied for the top spot in the Mid State League with a mark of 9-1 and an overall mark of 10-3.

In their first encounter on the Red and Black floor, Circleville came up with a 71-53 decision over Logan Elm but the Braves have come on strong and it should be a real donnybrook tomorrow night at the McDowell Memorial gym.

Coach Asa Bradbury has been getting the most out of his players and has good bench strength to back up his starters.

The Braves are putting an average of 65.7 points on the scoreboard while holding the opposition to 56.6.

Jeff Reichelderfer is leading the Braves' scoring with 16.9 points per game, Chuck Cave and Mike Miller are both averaging 9.6 per game, with Scott Allen and Mark Skinner both hitting around eight points per contest to round out the starting five.

Steve Rawlins, the sixth man, has been coming off the bench to put another eight points a game in the book. When Rawlins comes into the game it seems that he makes things happen as he is a great competitor and team player.

Reichelderfer is leading the Braves in assists and in shooting percentages, both from the floor and the foul line. Miller is the top rebounder followed closely by Cave and Reichelderfer. Miller has committed the least number of turnovers on the team.

Circleville's top scorers are Biff Bumgarner with a 20.3 game average, George Moore 16.8, Mike McCoy is netting 13.0. The other two starters are averaging about six points apiece.

The Tigers are also getting good bench help from Warren Yamarick, Rusty Holbrook, Jeff Williams, Tom Taylor and Brian Fath.

The Tigers are putting an average of 68.3 points per game in the book while holding the opponents to 51.6.

Moore is leading Circleville in rebounds, steals, least number of turnovers and field goal percentage. McCoy has the best foul shooting percentage.

"We are looking forward to a great game with Logan Elm as the personnel of both teams match up very well," Circleville coach Jim Bailey commented.

"They are a well coached team with outstanding personnel and will present a real challenge to our young men but we feel we are ready," Bailey stated.

"In regard to the Greenfield game, we played a little too much one on one early in the game which got us behind," Bailey said.

"After the first quarter we settled down and played fairly well. Brent Mancini did a fine job of denying his man the ball and did a good job on the boards. Warren Yamarick did an outstanding job of running our offense in the second half.

"Biff Bumgarner had a great game on the boards, made some key steals in close situations and made a pair of clutch free throws in the game. Mike McCoy played well in the pressure situations in the second half and Frank Merrill did a fine defensive job of holding his man to eight points below his season average. George Moore played as well as anyone could play and was the big man in our victory, Bailey said.

Wallace 67-58.

Earlham, a 100-98 victor over Anderson, has a leading 7-1 mark in the Hoosier-Buckeye Conference. Findlay (6-3) fell farther back in the race after absorbing a 64-63 loss at Bluffton. Defiance (7-3) now is second.

Rio Grande (4-1) rides in front in the Mid-Ohio Conference after its star, Jim Noe, scored 48 points in a 97-81 romp over Tiffin. Defending champion Malone (5-2), a 69-62 winner over Ohio Dominican, is right behind the Redmen.

Hiram (5-0) paces the Presidents' Conference following a 78-67 defeat of Carnegie-Mellon. John Carroll (5-1) is running second after routing Bethany 99-79.

Ohio State (1-5) fell deeper into the Big Ten basement, absorbing a 78-67 beating at Iowa. Larry Bolden's 16 points paced the Buckeyes, who try again tonight at Minnesota.

Xavier (8-6) was the lone Ohio major independent to win, the Musketeers turning back Navy 67-64. Cincinnati lost for only the third time in 16 starts, bowing at new Metro Six Conference rival Memphis State 75-69. Dayton (9-7) took a 76-60 shiner at Detroit.

Ben Crenshaw Wins Crosby Golf Clash

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — There was Ben Crenshaw, once again happily restored to the bright promise of his amateur years, now firmly implanted on one of history's youngest comebacks.

There was his bride, Polly, anxiously cautioning Ben not to mention her age (18) "because I won't be able to get a celebration drink."

And there was Jack Nicklaus, shrugging philosophically and then, almost in a comedy act, patting his pockets in a vain and futile search for a passport.

Those three pictures emerged Sunday from the confused, confusing and dramatic close to Bing's 35th Clambake, the $185,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am Golf Tournament.

"I'm the only guy in the world making a comeback at 24," Crenshaw said after his solid, three-under-par 69 had staked him to a two-stroke victory, a triumph that ended almost three years of frustration for the young man who hit the game with the gaudiest credentials and the most impressive start in decades — only to follow will a fall to mediocrity.

"I don't have it happen very often, but I had it happen to me today," Nicklaus said after an all-but-incredible last round 82 — one of the highest rounds of his competitive career.

Drema Winks, and this is the fourth week, (keep it up), rolled a fine 159-453 in the Friday Sunrise League.

Senior Citizens — Betty Dietrich, 156-438 and Marion Good, 243-632.

DuPont Mixed — Bob Burton, 232-648 and Margaret Knox, 204-544. Friday Mixed — Linda Febes and Judy Hart, 191; Judy Hart, 532; Don Hart, 227 and Bob Febes, 583.

Junior Girls — Bantam, Leslie Jones, 179-454; Junior, Lisa Jones, 410. Team highs for the week, PPG, 1061; Circle D., 3124; Sertoma Club, 1066-3061; G and R. Motors, 1057; B. F. Goodrich, 3000.

6. Circleville, 11-1, beat Greenfield McClain 58-52.

7. Wellsville, 9-0, beat Steubenville 75-35, Lisbon Beaver 71-52.

8. Magnolia Sandy Valley, 12-1, beat Massillon Tuslaw 64-57.

9. Wheelersburg, 11-0, beat Lucasville Valley 75-59, Gallipolis 56-44

10. Columbus St. Charles, 12-2, beat Columbus Wattersen 73-42, Navarre Fairless 50-39.

CLASS A

1. Gnadenhutten Indian Valley South, 13-0, beat Strasburg 54-32.

2. Morral Ridgedale, 12-0, beat Arlington 88-53.

3. Minster, 11-0, beat Bradford 91-52, Anna 73-66.

4. Sandusky St. Mary, 12-0, beat Castalia Margaretta 57-52, Fostoria St. Wendelin 79-66.

5. Arcanum, 12-0, beat Pitsburg Franklin-Monroe 80-71, Versailles 67-55.

6. St. Henry, 11-0, beat Coldwater 63-43, Union City Mississinawa Valley 74-68.

7. Pettisville, 12-1, lost to Stryker 58-53.

8. Maria Stein Marion, 10-2, beat Ansonia 61-41.

9. New Riegel, 13-1, beat Lakeside 100-65.

10. Sebring, 11-2, beat Lisbon Anderson 74-65.

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Jan van Breda Kolff looked back over his first week with the Kentucky Colonels and made one telling observation.

"We've won five of six games since I joined the team," the second-year forward said. "It took us 2½ months to win that many at Virginia."

The latest victory in the string was a 117-113 defeat of Indiana Sunday in which the newly acquired Van Breda Kolff and three other reserves teamed up with starter Wil Jones to break the game open in the third period and early in the fourth.

Elsewhere in the American Basketball Association, the San Antonio Spurs beat the New York Nets 128-104 and the Spirits of St. Louis defeated the Virginia Squires 121-100.

"It happened," he said before boarding a helicopter to San Francisco to make connections with a jet for a business trip to Tokyo. That's when he started his pocket-patting routine. A look of almost comic dismay crossed his face.

"I just remembered," he said. "I don't have a passport. That tops it."

It was a less-than-perfect close to a less-than-perfect day for Nicklaus, who was beset by a series of golfing misfortunes, misadventures and misjudgments normally visited only upon a weekend hacker.

He started the bright, sunny day in first place. He was playing Pebble Beach, one of his favorite courses. He appeared in commanding position to win his fourth Crosby title.

But things started going badly almost immediately and he bogeyed the first hole. Then they went from bad to worse. And from worse to unbelievable.

He played his back nine in 45. He had a double bogey and two triple bogeys. He hit his ball into pine forests. He hit it over the craggy cliffs of the Monterey Peninsula. He plugged it under the lips of the yawning bunkers. He got it in the water of what Pebble Beach calls a lateral hazard and most people call the Pacific Ocean. He three-putted.

Miami Knocks Off Ohio U; Wins Tilt 86-63

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Miami has disposed of one of its Mid American Conference basketball coleaders and the Redskins have an opportunity to knock off the other one Wednesday.

Miami's muscular, balanced, deep squad visits undefeated Western Michigan with the sole MAC lead at stake. Both are 6-0 inside the conference.

"This will be a tough ball game, but I like our position now," said Miami Coach Darrell Hedric of the showdown with the Broncos.

The Redskins outscored Ohio University 10-2 in the first four minutes of the second half, routing the Bobcats 86-63 with their first conference setback in five games.

"We simply overpowered them in the second half. That was the turning point," said Hedric.

Western Michigan, extending its unbeaten season to 14 games, stayed abreast of Miami with a 62-56 victory at Ball State, the Broncos' seventh consecutive MAC road triumph.

Elsewhere in the conference Saturday, volatile Kent State Coach Rex Hughes was thrown out after his third technical foul, but the Flashes outdueled Central Michigan 68-62, Tommy Harris' 26 points paced

Bowling Green past Northern Illinois 83-77 and Toledo stayed alive with an 86-63 verdict over Eastern Michigan.

Archie Aldridge led Miami, scoring 19 points and limiting Bobcat hotshot Scott Love to nine points. Steve Skaggs, a freshman substitute, paced Ohio with 11 points.

Ohio Coach Dale Bandy was convinced. "This is the best Miami team I've ever seen," said Bandy, a player for the Bobcats before he began coaching.

"They played good pressure defense. We weren't getting the shots we usually do. We lost control in the second half," said Bandy.

Ball State came within a point of Western Michigan with three minutes left, prompting Cardinals' Coach Jim Holstein to say: "I'm proud as I can be. This was the best, most aggressive defense we've played in the four years I've been here."

Jim Kurzen and Marty Murray put in 14 points apiece for Western Michigan. Randy Boarden's 22 paced Ball State (1-5), which sank only 32 per cent of its floor shots.

Logan Elm Girls Beat Berne Union

Logan Elm's girls varsity basketball team opened the season with an overpowering win. 54-25, over Berne Union on the Rockets' floor.

Logan Elm led 17-2, 37-6, 48-14 and 54-25 at the end of the quarters and the outcome was never in doubt from the outset.

Coach Kathi Thompson went to her bench in the third quarter and everyone saw action in the contest.

"It was just a great, total team effort and all of our girls played well," coach Kathi Thompson stated.

Diane Martin led the Braves scoring with 22 points, Beth Bell had 13, Teresa Newman tallied eight, Annette Roof hit five while Abby Rife, Terri Ebert and Tina Woods each added two. Schneider had 12 for Berne Union.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Miami has disposed of one of its Mid American Conference basketball coleaders and the Redskins have an opportunity to knock off the other one Wednesday.

Miami's muscular, balanced, deep squad visits undefeated Western Michigan with the sole MAC lead at stake. Both are 6-0 inside the conference.

"This will be a tough ball game, but I like our position now," said Miami Coach Darrell Hedric of the showdown with the Broncos.

The Redskins outscored Ohio University 10-2 in the first four minutes of the second half, routing the Bobcats 86-63 with their first conference setback in five games.

"We simply overpowered them in the second half. That was the turning point," said Hedric.

Western Michigan, extending its unbeaten season to 14 games, stayed abreast of Miami with a 62-56 victory at Ball State, the Broncos' seventh consecutive MAC road triumph.

Elsewhere in the conference Saturday, volatile Kent State Coach Rex Hughes was thrown out after his third technical foul, but the Flashes outdueled Central Michigan 68-62, Tommy Harris' 26 points paced

Bowling Green past Northern Illinois 83-77 and Toledo stayed alive with an 86-63 verdict over Eastern Michigan.

Archie Aldridge led Miami, scoring 19 points and limiting Bobcat hotshot Scott Love to nine points. Steve Skaggs, a freshman substitute, paced Ohio with 11 points.

Ohio Coach Dale Bandy was convinced. "This is the best Miami team I've ever seen," said Bandy, a player for the Bobcats before he began coaching.

"They played good pressure defense. We weren't getting the shots we usually do. We lost control in the second half," said Bandy.

Ball State came within a point of Western Michigan with three minutes left, prompting Cardinals' Coach Jim Holstein to say: "I'm proud as I can be. This was the best, most aggressive defense we've played in the four years I've been here."

Jim Kurzen and Marty Murray put in 14 points apiece for Western Michigan. Randy Boarden's 22 paced Ball State (1-5), which sank only 32 per cent of its floor shots.

Logan Elm Girls Beat Berne Union

Logan Elm's girls varsity basketball team opened the season with an overpowering win. 54-25, over Berne Union on the Rockets' floor.

Logan Elm led 17-2, 37-6, 48-14 and 54-25 at the end of the quarters and the outcome was never in doubt from the outset.

Coach Kathi Thompson went to her bench in the third quarter and everyone saw action in the contest.

"It was just a great, total team effort and all of our girls played well," coach Kathi Thompson stated.

Diane Martin led the Braves scoring with 22 points, Beth Bell had 13, Teresa Newman tallied eight, Annette Roof hit five while Abby Rife, Terri Ebert and Tina Woods each added two. Schneider had 12 for Berne Union.

Logan Elm dominated the boards, 58-36, with Diane Martin, Beth Bell, Terri Ebert and Tina Woods getting the job done for the Braves.

The Braves shot 36 per cent from the floor and 25 per cent from the foul line. The Logan Elm reserves dropped a narrow 20-17 decision to the Rockets.

Diane Weaver led the Braves with six points, Ronna Parker had four, Lelia Brown tallied three while Jackie Cave and Holly Riddle both added two.

The Logan Elm girls will host Millersport 6 p.m. Monday.

Amanda-Clearcreek has a 3-10 overall record after Saturday's game and is 1-8 in the Mid State League. The Amanda-Clearcreek reserves made it a perfect night with a 55-33 win. The reserves have an 12-1 overall mark and are 8-1 in the league.

Ben Crenshaw Wins Crosby Golf Clash

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — There was Ben Crenshaw, once again happily restored to the bright promise of his amateur years, now firmly implanted on one of history's youngest comebacks.

There was his bride, Polly, anxiously cautioning Ben not to mention her age (18) "because I won't be able to get a celebration drink."

And there was Jack Nicklaus, shrugging philosophically and then, almost in a comedy act, patting his pockets in a vain and futile search for a passport.

Those three pictures emerged Sunday from the confused, confusing and dramatic close to Bing's 35th Clambake, the $185,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am Golf Tournament.

"I'm the only guy in the world making a comeback at 24," Crenshaw said after his solid, three-under-par 69 had staked him to a two-stroke victory, a triumph that ended almost three years of frustration for the young man who hit the game with the gaudiest credentials and the most impressive start in decades — only to follow will a fall to mediocrity.

"I don't have it happen very often, but I had it happen to me today," Nicklaus said after an all-but-incredible last round 82 — one of the highest rounds of his competitive career.

TV Reserve Wrestlers Place 2nd In Meet

185 — Joe Berger pinned Fullan (Watterson) 1:22.

Hvy — Scott Rader beat Noble (UA) 4-1 in overtime.

Second places for Teays Valley were:

98 — John Davis (TV) lost to Ledet (Watterson) 15-5.

138 — Rick Alhaus (TV) lost to Murtha (D) by pin. 2:29.

Colonels Top Pacers

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Jan van Breda Kolff looked back over his first week with the Kentucky Colonels and made one telling observation.

"We've won five of six games since I joined the team," the second-year forward said. "It took us 2½ months to win that many at Virginia."

The latest victory in the string was a 117-113 defeat of Indiana Sunday by which the newly acquired Van Breda Kolff and three other reserves teamed up with starter Wil Jones to break the game open in the third period and early in the fourth.

Elsewhere in the American Basketball Association, the San Antonio Spurs beat the New York Nets 128-104 and the Spirits of St. Louis defeated the Virginia Squires 121-100.

Junior Braves Lose To Irish

McDowell's seventh and eighth grade teams were both defeated in the Mid State Southern Division championship games Saturday. The seventh graders dropped a 28-26 decision to Fisher Catholic while the eighth graders fell to the Irish, 40-35.

Rookie Colliton was top man for the Braves' eighth graders with 14 points, Chris Hildenbrand tallied 10, Beeman Leisure had five, Phil Evans netted four and Bill Archer had two. Flowers and Tobin each had 12 for the Irish.

Both games were played on the Logan Elm High School court.

Both teams will be back in action 4 p.m. Tuesday when they host Berne Union.

Cage Tickets On Sale For Tigers, Braves

Little Tiger Matmen Nip Marysville

The Circleville Junior High School seventh and eighth grade wrestling team defeated the visiting Marysville seventh and eighth grade team in a furiously contested meet Saturday night on the winners mats by a score of 36 to 35.

Jim Butler scored Circleville's only pin but extremely impressive and important winning decisions were obtained by Scott Brady, Mike Contino, Mike Linton and Dave Cordie. Each team obtained two forfeits. The win was the junior matmens third in four outings.

The seventh and eighth graders will host Hilliard at 5 p.m. Friday at the Mill St. gym.

Hoosiers Face Rugged Iowa Clash

By JOE MOOSHIL

AP Sports Writer

Indiana's top-ranked Hoosiers face a rugged Big Ten basketball hurdle at Iowa Monday night but when the going gets tough that's when Bobby Knight's marvels really display their talents.

Ask Minnesota Coach Jim Dutcher, whose Gophers held a 45-40 halftime advantage over the Hoosiers Saturday. All the Hoosiers did was come out and make the eight straight baskets without a miss to roll to an 85-76 victory.

"When they came out and made those first eight shots in the second half...they're gone," said Dutcher. "When they made those shots it took our running game away because there were no rebounds. They had an outstanding second half and put it together and I felt they deserved to win the ball game."

So did Knight who often has been critical of his charges this season.

"It was as enjoyable a segment of basketball as we've played all year," said Knight. Indiana didn't play poorly in the first half, it was just that Minnesota received a sterling performance from Ray Williams. Williams scored a game high 34 points and made 22 of them in the first half.

"I don't know if I've ever seen a guy shoot the ball like Williams did in the first half," said Knight.

Indiana hiked its record to 16-0 and 7-0 in the Big Ten. It was the Hoosiers' 26th straight conference triumph, one short of the record set by Ohio State in 1962.

Still Indiana failed to gain ground in the Big Ten as Michigan edged Purdue

Lamar Parrish Still Wants Traded

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Defensive back Lamar Parrish makes his fourth appearance in the National Football League Pro Bowl tonight and perhaps his last as a member of the Cincinnati Bengals.

The NFL's 1974 punt return champion has loudly and bitterly repeated his demand to be traded.

"I just want out," said the disgruntled six-year veteran, who is the most exciting member of the Bengals special teams.

Parrish renewed his bid with a stinging attack on ex-head coach Paul Brown, who recently stepped down to concentrate on the job of general manager.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Your enthusiasm, competence and ability to formulate sound programs should help you to attain new ground now but, as you progress, give a little extra attention to domestic affairs.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): There's a tendency now to be too passive, to idle away time, drift along indifferently. Rouse yourself. Don't stall until external agents FORCE you to act.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): You will be expected to cope with some unforeseen situations now. Handle these bigger responsibilities willingly and without fretting. It will pay later.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Timing important now. Day calls for deliberation and well calculated action, but do not wait TOO long before making important decisions.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Don't abandon a project just because someone else may not be enthusiastic about it, but listen to their ideas anyway. There COULD be some angles you have overlooked.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Auspicious stellar influences stimulate your talents. Be ready to move forward with enthusiasm and hope. Written matters highly favored.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Endurance and stability needed. Be ready for changes. Don't make unnecessary ones, but accept those which are desirable. Alertness and self-mastery will be important.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Familiar matters favored rather than new ventures. You may encounter tense feelings in some areas. Keep your balance and look at the bright side of things.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24 to Dec. 21): Before you take off in any direction, wait long enough to carefully gather necessary data and DO keep your wits about you. This is no day in which to act blindly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): If not making the progress you should, stop, investigate, ask questions and, if necessary, retrace your steps. Much can be done to step up advancement.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Bright new opportunities indicated. Rewards may not be immediate, but day can be more than just satisfying, and can lead to bigger returns soon.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Review the inner forces that drive you. Are you sure you are on the right course? Day's influences call for better-than-average effort.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with an extremely alert mind; are always ready for action, willing to take on responsibility, no matter how difficult. You are progressive in your thinking and could become a leader in almost any field of your choice. The Aquarian excels in journalism, the graphic arts, advertising, promotion and the theater. Witty and endowed with a magnetic personality, he could become a top-flight lecturer. Birthdate of: W. A. Mozart, Austrian composer; Charles Dodgson ("Lewis Carroll"), mathematician, author of "Alice in Wonderland"; Jerome Kern, American composer, musical comedy specialist.

Marine Corps officer ranks are the same as in the Army and Air Force.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation, its once-shiny image a bit tarnished of late, gets the once-over tonight in a one-hour CBS News special called "Inside the FBI."

Alas, the show, written and produced by Howard Stringer and reported by Dan Rather, doesn't live up to the hard-hitting reputation of previous "CBS Reports" programs.

One segment, a study of FBI agents in Atlanta trying to find a suspect wanted for questioning in a Florida jewel heist, would make even the most kindly city editor scream for some basic facts.

In it, Rather follows the FBI's search of the suspect's house after the man has fled the scene. He asserts that the man's alibi has collapsed and that "he is the Florida jewel thief after all."

The suspect is arrested a day later in Louisiana. But we never learn if he ever was charged with the jewel theft, let alone tried for it.

The show's premise basically concerns the damage done the FBI's reputation by post-Watergate revelations of what Rather calls its "massive domestic spying" and its campaign against Martin Luther King.

"We know the headlines," Rather says. "We wanted to know how these things could have happened."

First comes a look at the climate of the FBI, the sort of persons who join it, their training, their work, the ranges of cases they handle.

Eventually, we get to the nub of the show, the area of national security and domestic intelligence where, as Rather says in beginning the program, "most of the abuses (by the FBI) developed."

Only four cases are specifically cited. One involves an attempt by the late J. Edgar Hoover to get a Washington reporter fired because Hoover felt the man was out to discredit the FBI.

The reporter, Jack Nelson of the Los Angeles Times, quotes from and speaks about allegations contained in a file the FBI kept on him.

Chilling, yes, but why not an examination of whether and how such a file violates Nelson's constitutional rights? Just saying the FBI sometimes gathers poop on "anyone it dislikes" doesn't add much to understanding the problem.

A similar flaw lies in an interview with a former campus activist who supported Arab causes, later was a defense lawyer for Sirhan Sirhan and was the object of intense FBI scrutiny for eight years.

But we don't learn what, if anything, could justify such scrutiny.

The two other cases each involve a paid FBI informant. Each spied on and led dissident groups, one an anti-war group, the other a right-wing group opposed both to the left and the Nixon Administration.

Each spy says he was present at a clear instance of criminal activity — the trashing of a draft board office and a shooting that wounded a lady. Yet the FBI took no immediate action, each spy says, even though it knew of the planned trashing and was informed of the shooting the day after it happened.

Why? And why no investigation into whether the FBI agents involved in each case themselves violated the law? There are answers, but I'm afraid you'll not find them in CBS' "Inside the FBI."

Lamar Parrish Still Wants Traded

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Defensive back Lamar Parrish makes his fourth appearance in the National Football League Pro Bowl tonight and perhaps his last as a member of the Cincinnati Bengals.

The NFL's 1974 punt return champion has loudly and bitterly repeated his demand to be traded.

"I just want out," said the disgruntled six-year veteran, who is the most exciting member of the Bengals special teams.

Parrish renewed his bid with a stinging attack on ex-head coach Paul Brown, who recently stepped down to concentrate on the job of general manager.

Your Views On Horoscope Television

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Your enthusiasm, competence and ability to formulate sound programs should help you to attain new ground now but, as you progress, give a little extra attention to domestic affairs.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): There's a tendency now to be too passive, to idle away time, drift along indifferently. Rouse yourself. Don't stall until external agents FORCE you to act.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): You will be expected to cope with some unforeseen situations now. Handle these bigger responsibilities willingly and without fretting. It will pay later.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Timing important now. Day calls for deliberation and well calculated action, but do not wait TOO long before making important decisions.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Don't abandon a project just because someone else may not be enthusiastic about it, but listen to their ideas anyway. There COULD be some angles you have overlooked.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Auspicious stellar influences stimulate your talents. Be ready to move forward with enthusiasm and hope. Written matters highly favored.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Endurance and stability needed. Be ready for changes. Don't make unnecessary ones, but accept those which are desirable. Alertness and self-mastery will be important.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Familiar matters favored rather than new ventures. You may encounter tense feelings in some areas. Keep your balance and look at the bright side of things.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Before you take off in any direction, wait long enough to carefully gather necessary data and DO keep your wits about you. This is no day in which to act blindly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): If not making the progress you should, stop, investigate, ask questions and, if necessary, retrace your steps. Much can be done to step up advancement.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Bright new opportunities indicated. Rewards may not be immediate, but day can be more than just satisfying, and can lead to bigger returns soon.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Review the inner forces that drive you. Are you sure you are on the right course? Day's influences call for better-than-average effort.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with an extremely alert mind; are always ready for action, willing to take on responsibility, no matter how difficult. You are progressive in your thinking and could become a leader in almost any field of your choice. The Aquarian excels in journalism, the graphic arts, advertising, promotion and the theater. Witty and endowed with a magnetic personality, he could become a top-flight lecturer. Birthdate of: W. A. NEW YORK (AP) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation, its once-shiny image a bit tarnished of late, gets the onceover tonight in a one-hour CBS News special called "Inside the FBI."

Alas, the show, written and produced by Howard Stringer and reported by Dan Rather, doesn't live up to the hard-hitting reputation of previous "CBS Reports" programs.

One segment, a study of FBI agents in Atlanta trying to find a suspect wanted for questioning in a Florida jewel heist, would make even the most kindly city editor scream for some basic facts.

In it, Rather follows the FBI's search of the suspect's house after the man has fled the scene. He asserts that the man's alibi has collapsed and that "he is the Florida jewel thief after all."

The suspect is arrested a day later in Louisiana. But we never learn if he ever was charged with the jewel theft, let alone tried for it.

The show's premise basically concerns the damage done the FBI's reputation by post-Watergate revelations of what Rather calls its "massive domestic spying" and its campaign against Martin Luther King. "We know the headlines," Rather says. "We wanted to know how these things could have happened."

First comes a look at the climate of the FBI, the sort of persons who join it, their training, their work, the ranges of cases they handle.

Jury Continues Arson Deliberations

NEW HAVEN (AP) — Jury deliberations in the Sponge Rubber Products Co. arson trial drag into an eighth day today with five defendants still awaiting decisions on their fate.

During its first 39 hours of deliberations spanning 1½ weeks, the U.S. District Court jury convicted two central figures in the case and acquitted two other men, including Charles D. Moeller, president of the Shelton Company's parent firm.

It found the Rev. David N. Bubar, a reputed psychic from Memphis, Tenn., and Dennis C. Tiche of Boyers, Pa., guilty a week ago of four arson related counts. Moeller, a millionaire from Cridersville, Ohio, was acquitted Thursday of the same counts.

Another Pennsylvania man was acquitted on the first day of deliberations.

The Shelton plant was destroyed March 1.

Bubar and Tiche remain in jail despite attempts by their lawyers to arrange their release on bail.

Defense lawyers speculated Friday that the four female and eight male jurors had tried to reach agreement on all or most of the remaining five defendants but so far had failed.

While the jury plodded through the mass of evidence from the 14-week-long trial Friday, some defendants and their attorneys let off steam by playing hockey with a rubber ball outside the courtroom.

The remaining defendants are Peter Betres and Ronald D. Betres, both of Butler, Pa.; Anthony A. Just of Greensburg, Pa.; Michael J. Tiche of Boyers, Pa., and Albert R. Coffey of Cleveland, Ohio.

Part of the jury's problem appears to lie in the complexity of the four counts filed against four of the five men. Ronald Betres faces only three counts.

The jury returned to the courtroom Friday afternoon and heard for a third time Judge Jon O. Newman's explanation of two of the counts involving explosives, and rules for deciding convictions for "aiding and abetting" a crime.

The charges become complicated because the jury must decide the intent of each defendant at various stages of the arson ploy.

The government's star witness claimed Bubar used company money to pay Peter Betres for organizing an arson group. John Shaw maintained all of them were involved in arson plot before coming to Connecticut and all helped in carrying it out.

All of the remaining five defendants, however, claimed the FBI drew them into the case without sufficient evidence and that Shaw framed them to get a reduction in charges against him as a result of the fire.

The jury apparently doubted part of his testimony when it acquitted Donald L. Connors of Butler, Pa. He admitted driving a truck from the Pittsburgh area to Shelton but denied Shaw's claim he knew it contained dynamite and gasoline.

Tornadoes Hammer Southland

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thundershowers in the South yesterday touched off four tornadoes. The most destructive one hit Donaldsonville in southeast Louisiana late in the afternoon. Two minor injuries occurred as the twister damaged a junior high school and numerous trailers and houses.

A winter storm spread a variety of precipitation across the eastern part of the nation overnight. Snow fell over the western Great Lakes region and portions of the upper Mississippi valley. Parts of southern Wisconsin received four to five inches from the storm. A heavy snow warning was posted for parts of northern Michigan. However, most snowfall amounts during the night were one inch or less in the area.

Some light snow fell over the eastern Dakotas and north central Nebraska. Snow also moved across southern Colorado and northeast New Mexico.

Freezing rain hit the northeastern portion of lower Michigan and central Pennsylvania. Rain also fell over the Great Lakes region, the Appalachians, the Ohio valley and Tennessee. Showers and thundershowers reached southward into the central Gulf states.

Freezing rain was expected to spread into New York and New England today, creating hazardous traveling conditions.

Throughout the west the weather was clear, except for the northern Pacific coast where it was cloudy with some rain.

The coldest nighttime temperatures were below zero in portions of the northern plains and the northern and central Rockies.

Overnight temperatures ranged from 72 at Miami and Key West, Fla., to 13 below zero at Gunnison, Colo.

Claim Soviet Angolan Faction Making Overtures To U.S.

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — Westerners arriving from Angola reported today that leaders of the National Union — UNITA — told them South African forces have completed their withdrawal from the civil war in the former Portuguese territory and the Soviet-backed Popular Movement — MPLA — has used jet fighters in the conflict for the first time.

The travelers said UNITA leader Jonas Savimbi told them during a tour of the Western-backed faction's territory in central and southern Angola last week that the last South African troops were flown south Friday, two days after their government ordered them to withdraw.

A British correspondent reported from the MPLA capital today that the Soviet-backed faction is making "discreet" overtures to the United States.

Nicholas Ashford of the Times of London reported from Luanda that the MPLA's desire to improve relations with Washington was shown by the treatment accorded Mark Moran, an adviser to Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., who met almost every MPLA civil and military leader except President Agostinho Neto during a visit last week to Luanda.

Ashford said Moran said he got "the distinct impression that the MPLA would like to have better relations with the United States — and the MPLA is not demanding U.S. recognition as a price."

Moran also felt MPLA moderates have the upper hand over Communists and radical nationalists in the movement but need "a softening of American attitudes toward the MPLA in order to legitimize their position in relation to the more radical members," the British newsman reported.

Ashford also reported that the MPLA press had modified its attacks on the United States.

Family Planning Assn. To Meet

Board members and volunteers of Pickaway County Family Planning Association will hold their annual meeting 8 p.m. Thursday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Sanders, 571 Garden Parkway.

Mary Harris, Executive Director of Planned Parenthood in Columbus will be guest speaker. Election of officers for the year will be conducted.

The Ohio Experiment Station for farm research was established by the legislature in April, 1882.

One of the travelers said Savimbi reported the MPLA used jet fighters for the first time in the 10-month-old war at 9 a.m. Sunday to strafe UNITA positions at the port of Novo Redondo, in Central Angola. The UNITA leader reportedly said his foes also used jets in fighting at Cela, 95 miles north of Huambo, the UNITA capital.

The travelers said UNITA officials claimed their troops were holding Novo Redondo despite MPLA bombardment and were successfully containing MPLA efforts to break through defenses south of Cela on the road to Huambo. The MPLA last week claimed to have captured Novo Rodondo.
